

Europe Needs U.S. Troops, Says 'Ike'

Gen. Eisenhower Tells Congress 'There Is No Other Alternative'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told Congress today there is "no acceptable alternative" to American help in rearming Europe.

Eisenhower, chosen to head the Allied defence forces against Russian aggression, publicly joined the debate over committing United States troops to those forces with an address to an informal joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives.

He argued: "We must give Europe assistance not only because there is no acceptable alternative, but because if we were left standing alone, isolated in a world of Communism, our system would wither away."

Eisenhower told members that their decision on defence co-operation with western Europe would determine the course of civilization and whether free governments will continue to exist.

Just back from a tour of Europe, Eisenhower said there is no question of western Europe's desire to resist aggression.

"There is a spirit to resist," he said. "There is a determination to do their part—to take the risk."

CITES EQUIPMENT NEED

He said, too, that Europe's greatest need now is not American soldiers but equipment which he said must be delivered in quantity and quickly.

As to transfer of American troops to Europe, Eisenhower said that should be done in a ratio to what the Europeans themselves provide.

SKETCHES CONDITIONS

He sketched briefly conditions in individual European countries as he said he found them.

He said there is "no question" that France has "determined to face up to the threat of communism from within and without."

"And he found the same spirit in Belgium, Holland and Denmark."

"There is no question about Norway's determination to resist to the point of destruction," he went on.

He said he found in Rome a stiffening of Italian morale and efforts to make that country's defence force more efficient.

Eisenhower said he did not want to speak about the military potential of Germany.

He said the diplomats must come up with a political platform for Germany which gives that country equality before any of its military units could be used in an international defence force.

LT-GEN. CHARLES FOULKES

LT-GEN. GUY SIMONDS

Foulkes Named 3-Force Head; New Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet today named Army Chief Lt. Gen. Charles Foulkes top man of all three forces and called Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds to Ottawa to head the army.

This spectacular two-way development means the return of the brilliant, Victoria-educated 47-year-old Simonds to an active army role after five years of lecturing and directing British and Canadian staff colleges.

The move makes Gen. Foulkes, 48, permanent chairman of the Chiefs of Staff committee, charged with the job of co-ordinating the training and operations of the army, navy and air force.

In that role, he will be equivalent to Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the American Chiefs of Staff committee. Both have other chiefs of staff under them.

The announcement means Canada's departure from the traditional system of having a chief for each service answerable only to the Defence Minister and, secondly, the return to an active soldier's role of Gen. Symonds, the man many persons consider the most able soldier Canada produced in the recent war.

U.S. SETS OFF 3RD ATOMIC BLAST IN WEEK IN DESERT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The third atomic blast in a week hit up the pre-dawn sky northwest of here today. One witness described it as "like a huge flash gun" which photographers use.

This was the 12th atomic explosion. The Atomic Energy Commission would give no details.

A reporter said "there was a quick, blinding flash which outlined the hills north of town. The flash tapered off to a rosy hue and then disappeared. Six minutes later there was a rumbling noise which shook houses and rattled dishes."

U.S.-French Force Fights 3,000 Chinese On Central Korean Front; Seoul Retreat

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

TOKYO (UP)—U.S. and French forces battled desperately against Communist encirclement on the Korean central front today, but Reds below Seoul began a retreat across the Han River.

14 Perish, 20 Missing In Plane Mishaps

LISBON (Reuter)—A Portuguese military sky-master plane from Lages base in the Azores crashed into the sea after take-off last night killing all 14 aboard.

The crash, believed caused by an explosion, occurred four miles east of Victoria Beach, Terceira Island, Azores, according to reports received here tonight from Lages.

Meanwhile an Icelandic airways plane, with 17 passengers and a crew of three, disappeared in a blizzard early today. It was believed missing between the Icelandic capital of Reykjavik and the Westman Islands, a small group just off Iceland's south coast.

Missing Bush Plane

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—Two R.C.A.F. search planes took off today to hunt for four persons aboard a bush plane missing since Monday in a wild area of northwestern Quebec about 200 miles north of Ottawa.

The single-engine privately-owned Beaver aircraft disappeared on a flight over the Gouin Reservoir area, which is in a direct line between Lake Abitibi and Lake St. John. It carried Pilot J. Comtois, a co-pilot also named Comtois, and a sick Indian couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Newbush.

More than 3,000 bugle-blowing Chinese and North Korean troops hit an armored Franco-American regimental combat team from five sides before dawn in a Banzai assault some 10 miles north of Yaju, 38 miles southeast of Seoul.

Both sides threw in reinforcements. However, the Reds' first attempt to complete the encirclement of the Allied tanks and infantry had been beaten off and a 10th Corps officer said the assault was "under control."

Farther west, Communist resistance decreased in the face of an eight-day Allied offensive. American pilots reported that "large numbers" of Red troops below Seoul have begun retreating north across the Han River behind a screen of well-trenched rear guards.

TYPHUS HITS CHINESE REDS

A U.S. Army spokesman in Washington said today a typhus epidemic has hit the Chinese Communist troops in Korea and "materially reduced their fighting capabilities."

Meanwhile in Korea, President Syngman Rhee said: "I hope to be back in Seoul soon." He added the war "is already coming to an end."

deserted Wonchon, a tiny village three miles east and 19 miles southeast of Seoul.

Elsewhere along the front running from southwest to southeast of Seoul, other 1st Corps forces ground slowly forward through resistance described officially as light to moderate.

PUERTO RICANS WIN

Puerto Rican troops two miles west of Wonchon stormed a hill pockmarked with Chinese foxholes for the second straight day and for the first time reached the crest and captured it.

The creeping United Nations offensive gained up to two miles all along the front yesterday, and an estimated 2,500 Reds were killed or wounded.

B-29 Superfortresses carried their aerial offensive against Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, into its third straight day today. The flights of Okinawa-based B-29's reported "excellent results."

There was no immediate word whether the 45,000-ton U.S. battleship Missouri and its task force of a cruiser, nine destroyers, a number of rocket ships and other craft were bombarding the east coast for the third straight day.

Feeding Royal swans in park is H. Benson. Bird on right is wild whistler.

Robin's Feast On Berries Ducks, Swans Dejected

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Anyone who should "Follow the Birds to Victoria" at this time of the year will certainly lose faith in the avian population instinct for predicting the arrival of spring.

The birds seem to be as confused as man with the weather and all have that dismal and dejected look which follows disappointment.

The brants, as well as other shore birds, have arrived from the south and have settled in the nooks and bays around Victoria. So far they are not showing any signs of being impatient to proceed on their journey northward.

SEEKING HOSPITALITY

The only birds who have showed any sense are the robins who have been seen in large flocks in the city feeding on winter berries. They have not migrated from the south as one would assume but have come down from northern regions of Vancouver Island in the hopes of finding Victoria a little more hospitable.

The ducks appear to have taken their cue from the robins and are arriving by the hundreds at Beacon Hill Park where they are getting free hand-outs of food.

According to a warden it would seem that the birds are passing the word around that feed is free in Victoria. The duck population at Beacon Hill Park in the past few weeks has increased to over a thousand.

STALETY BE UNHAPPY

The most dejected birds in the park are the Royal Swans who spend their days trying to prevent the ponds from freezing up completely. They move about in a circle and in this manner are able to keep small portions of the ponds from icing.

The other birds just peck at the ice and look mad when they don't get any results.

The loneliest bird is a wild whistling swan which the Royal Mutes have snubbed since his arrival at the pond. But the whistler is smarter and quicker than his aristocratic brothers. He can snatch food from right under their noses.

Rail Walkout Spreads Over Big U.S. Area

CHICAGO (AP)—An unauthorized strike of railroad switchmen highballed across the United States today, putting a brake on the country's rail transportation.

The wildcat walkout over an old wage-hour dispute, appeared more critical by the hour, hitting directly against 33 railroads in 18 major cities. It started three days ago.

Scores of other carriers felt the impact of the fast-spreading work stoppage. So did other industries. Thousands of non-railroad workers were made idle by the strike.

The government moved to end the strike. So did officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. But as they acted, new stoppages were reported.

The army, which is technically in charge of American railroads, said it is planning action to deal with the walkout, however.

U.N. Assembly Also Votes To Brand Peiping

By MAX HARRELSON

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations Assembly voted overwhelmingly today to tag Communist China as an aggressor in Korea, but a warning by Britain to go slow on sanctions raised a big question as to the next step.

The Assembly vote was 44 to 7—the same as the ballot in the political committee Tuesday night. The five Soviet bloc countries were joined by India and Burma in casting the opposing votes. Eight countries abstained and one—Saudi Arabia—was recorded as not participating.

Today's action brought to an end the present phase of the diplomatic battle which was touched off by a report from Gen. Douglas MacArthur 12 weeks ago that the Chinese Reds had intervened in the Korean conflict.

GIVES FINDINGS

The Assembly:

1. Decided that Communist China engaged in aggression in Korea.

2. Requested a committee on collective security to study what to do about meeting this aggression, but to hold up its work if a good offices committee reports progress on a peaceful settlement.

3. Approved creation of the good offices committee to consist of Assembly President Nasser, Nasser of Iran and two others whom he will name.

4. Called on the Peiping regime to withdraw its nationals and forces from Korea and to stop fighting U.N. forces.

5. Affirmed the determination of the U.N. to continue its action in Korea to meet the aggression.

6. Called upon all states and authorities not to help the aggressors.

JEFF MAKES APPEAL

Just before the vote, Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb urged the Assembly to concentrate on seeking a peaceful settlement in Korea and to go slow on sanctions against the Chinese Reds. The most important task of the U.N., Jebb said, is to study all possibilities for a peaceful settlement, leaving sanctions until last.

"Sanctions should not be applied by this Assembly for a long time," he said.

The Assembly began its session by voting to apply the "gag" rule in an effort to speed adoption of the American resolution.

FEARED LONG DEBATE

Approval of the U.S. proposal was taken for granted, but there had been some fear that the Soviet bloc countries, possibly with some Asian and Arab support, might drag the debate on indefinitely.

The resolution was approved by the political committee, 44 to 7, Tuesday night. The one big question remaining after final ratification of the proposal, is: "What next?"

G.I.'S GRIM AT NEWS OF U.N. ACTION

ON THE CENTRAL

FRONT, Korea (UP)—Tears came to the eyes of some of the battle-weary G.I.'s in the foxholes on this front when they learned today that a U.N. political committee had branded Communist China an aggressor.

To many it meant that their dreams of home and rejoining their families had to be postponed indefinitely. They had the feeling they were caught in an unending nightmare.

"We will probably never get home now," Corp. Joseph Wilczek, 25, of Highwood, Ill., said. "This will make a helluva long war."

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

BUSTS, SWORDS AND STONES

THIS IS A COLUMN I have been wanting to write for several weeks but, discretion being the better part of valor in my case, I thought it wiser to wait until local Scottish fervor had got over its annual Burns-and-haggis peak before reviving a ticklish subject.

Now I feel I can no longer ignore the fact that things have come to a pretty pass in Britain, judging by the era of vandalism against public pride and possessions which set in when the Stone of Scone was purloined from its privileged place in Westminster Abbey.

CONTEMPT FOR CROMWELL

JUST WHEN EVERYONE was in a delirious dither over the disappearance of the sacred seat, it was discovered that some miserable wretch had been trying to upset the bust of Oliver Cromwell, almost prying it from its base on the floor of the House of Commons.

As if those things weren't worrying enough, an eagle-eyed amateur sleuth added to the general consternation by pointing out that the four-foot bronze sword had been stolen from the girdle of Britannia, seated at the base of the Clyde statue in Waterloo Place. As may be imagined, the sinister nano of Scottish nationalist design has been seen in all these unoward happenings that have been upsetting England and worrying Scotland Yard.

GUARD THE YARD!

THAT REMINDS ME! I hope they will guard Scotland Yard extra well and take every precaution over its precincts. Because, while I am ignorant of where it got its name and what its significance might be, I wouldn't put it past the more fanatical followers of the new Covenant movement to raid it one dark night and remove it, stone by stone, to the north of the Border.

But to come back to the Cromwell bust episode. It has been recalled that Cromwell, when he was installed Lord Protector of England in 1654, seated himself upon the Stone of Scone to show his contempt for the monarchy. So it could be that some Scot with an extra long memory is trying to get even with the long-dead English revolutionary for daring to sit on the Stone—even if he did it, as they say, to signify his contempt for the Throne—by pushing him off his posthumous pedestal.

SWORDPLAY!

AS TO THE MOTIVE behind the stealing of Britannia's sword, it is even more mystifying to me. Unless it is that some fiery Highlander has done it just to make sure Britannia couldn't plunge it into the bosom of the eminent dignitary at whose feet she has been sitting for so many years—in revenge for the sacrilege committed by Scots to the British Throne in the Abbey.

The Clyde statue commemorates Colin Campbell, Baron Clyde, who led a Highland brigade in the Crimean War and was raised to the peerage for the part he played in quelling the Indian mutiny. So you'd think Scottish pride, no matter how frenetic about Home Rule, would have been preening itself at the contemplation of Britannia's long-held, lowly seat at the foot of its Highland hero. There's no pleasing some people!

KING'S STONE

NOTICE, too, that Scottish National Party leaders have been boasting in Edinburgh that the theft of the Stone was the result of their long-laid plans, and that it is now safe beyond the Tweed and would remain there "until Scotland is allowed to control her own destiny." Well, I can't help recalling what one of their own national heroes once said about "the best-laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley." That could apply to stanes, too.

Not that I see any likelihood of a Sassenach bothering to steal it back again. After all, the English have a far better stone of their own—the King's Stone, which gave its name to Kingston-on-Thames, where it is ensconced behind seven stone pillars connected by iron railings. Here Egbert held his council in the year 838, and on it seven Saxon kings were crowned, a coin of each king's reign being placed under each stone. Incidentally, I haven't yet heard of there being any bawbees under the Stone of Scone?

U.B.C.M. Should Seek Amendment

City of Victoria's request for amendment to the Municipal Act regarding candidates' property qualifications should come through to the government as a recommendation from the U.B.C.M. Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald advised the city today.

He made the suggestion in view of the fact that the amendment was "of interest to all municipalities." It would allow a candidate to qualify to run for municipal office if he had a cash investment of $500 or more in land or real property, regardless of encumbrances.

Nanaimo Mayor Says Lumber Claim False

Mayor Earle Westwood of Nanaimo has challenged a statement attributed to Reeve A. E. Beasley of North Cowichan that "50 per cent of the lumber going over Nanaimo assembly wharf comes from Honeymoon Bay and Mayo, logging operations."

(In the Victoria Times of Jan. 24 Reeve Beasley was reported to have said that in 1950, the Nanaimo wharf handled 74 million feet of lumber, 50 per cent of which passed through Chemainus from the Cowichan valley.)

"Reeve Beasley is away out in his figures," Mayor Westwood is quoted by the Nanaimo Free Press.

It is claimed that dock space is short in Nanaimo now, and will be worse as more and more lumber comes from the northern part of the island.

Commenting on the situation editorially, the Free Press states:

Australia's Labor Problem Blamed On Reds

SYDNEY (Reuter) — Foreign Minister Percy Spender, today said Australia faces "a Communist conspiracy" in the coal miners' decision to stage one-day stoppages starting next week.

The miners are protesting a recent wage award.

As the Miners' Central Council threatened to extend the strikes, Spender said that "continued defiance of the law can no longer be tolerated." The government would not be deterred by threats in its determination to uphold the arbitration system.

Unless the "conspirators" are dealt with, he said, Australia's economy will be destroyed.

The Miners' Central Council decided on the one-day-a-week stoppages Wednesday. Today it threatened to make it two days a week if the government takes legal action against the union leaders.

The council's strike decision followed similar action by rank-and-file mass meetings in protest against a recent ruling by the coal-industry tribunal ruling.

The ruling said the wage rises of up to $4.48 a week should be conditional on the miners' working 10 full days every two weeks.

Four men died in the disaster, worst to hit Three Rivers since 1908 when fire destroyed half the city. Only the fact that the collapse came at a period of light traffic prevented what likely would have been a high death toll.

Normally the 50-foot-high bridge, main link with Quebec some 90 miles to the east, is abutted with automobiles and trucks.

Investigations were under way today to determine responsibility for what Three Rivers' mayor, J. A. Mongrain, termed a "satellite." A provincial government inquiry was promised by Premier Maurice Duplessis, who opened the 2,000-foot-long bridge in 1948.

The Premier's first reaction, given in a speech to the Legislature, was: "Sabotage!" He admitted that he had no evidence immediately to support the charge.

The Duplessis Bridge, named in honor of Premier Duplessis' father, former Three Rivers mayor, was closed for a time last February when cracks developed in the steel under-structure. Repair work went on for nearly eight months.

Many theories have been advanced as a likely cause of the bridge failure—in Toronto, one engineer said metal contraction due to cold weather could have been the reason—but recovery of the sunken spans seemed necessary before the reason could be determined finally.

U.S. Cold Wave Hits Wide Area

CHICAGO (AP) —

The winter's season's coldest and stormiest weather showed no signs of abating today. In many parts of the United States it got worse.

Fresh blasts of cold air struck over western and mid-continent areas. Snow, sleet and rain pelted wide sections of the east and south. More than 80 deaths were attributed to the storm.

Communications were snarled.

Texas took another beating from the wintry elements. Losses to livestock and to the citrus crop were estimated in the millions of dollars from the season's worst storm and cold.

New cold air masses pushed across the Canadian border today, sending temperatures to as low as 35 below zero in parts of the Rocky Mountain region and to near -30 in the north-central states.

Red Control Over Union Criticized

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith said today that Communist domination of Vancouver Civic Employees' Union, Local 28, was a "significant breach" of the constitution of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

His comment was contained in a judgment of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, which refused an injunction to prevent organization of a rival T.L.C. Union among Vancouver's outside civic workers.

Twenty Flee $100,000 Fire In Montreal

MONTREAL (BUP) —

Twenty persons, including 12 children, fled into a near-blizzard in pyjamas and dressing-gowns early today when a $100,000 fire in a hardware store spread to four upstairs apartments and an adjoining flat.

Firemen who answered three alarms reported there were no injuries to residents in the blaze but they were unable to save the brick-encased building and a flat next door. One fireman was slightly hurt.

The apartment-dwellers were awakened by a woman who noticed flames in the hardware store as she walked by. They ran outdoors down a back staircase into deep snow and near-zero temperatures without waiting to dress.

Maids Claim Sullivan Room Double-Locked

OTTAWA (CP) —

Chambermaids testified today in the manslaughter trial of Mrs. Marion Sullivan that the Chateau Laurier hotel room in which Mrs. Sullivan's husband died Nov. 17 had been checked seven times that afternoon and evening and each time found "double-locked."

The testimony was given in the second day of the trial of the 48-year-old Toronto woman on a charge that she killed her husband, Francis J. Sullivan, 52. An original charge of murder was reduced to manslaughter at a preliminary hearing.

The trial is before the winter Assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Bernadette Pare, chambermaid on duty on the hotel floor from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. E.S.T. Nov. 17, said she visited the Sullivan room about 2:30 p.m. when she inquired whether the occupants wanted the room made up, a man's voice answered her: "No, never mind."

The Verdict Is Guilty

IN A TEST WHICH ITS FOUNDERS never foresaw and its Charter never contemplated, the United Nations has condemned the aggression of a great power. One result of its vote already is clear—the alliance of free states has survived a trial which could have broken it and destroyed the last hope of peace through strength. But all the other results—and doubtless there will be many—no man can foresee.

In a situation without historic parallel it is necessary to understand exactly what the United Nations has done. It has found China guilty of aiding aggression in Korea. It has taken no steps to discipline China by war, economic sanctions or otherwise. On the contrary it has, specifically created machinery by which a truce with China may be negotiated whenever China is ready to discuss it on reasonable terms. Moreover, it has received from the United States, which demanded condemnation of the aggressor, the assurance that American arms will not be used against China without United Nations consent.

It does not follow that the verdict of guilty will deter China from further adventures. It does not follow either that the United Nations, having set in motion a new chain of events, can halt or limit them as it desires. China and Russia will decide whether the present war in Korea is to spread elsewhere.

That chance must be taken and the risks would still face us even if the United Nations ignored the fact of aggression, bowed to it and abdicated. By facing the fact and uniting in condemnation, the United Nations at least remains in being as a forum of future conciliation or a weapon of future power. Had it done otherwise it certainly would have collapsed and the United States might well have been driven, by disgust with its partners, into isolationism.

What the United Nations has done it has done reluctantly and with grave doubt.

The great nation of India, the only important foothold of democracy in Asia, opposed the resolution of condemnation outright, thinks that all chance of peaceful settlement has been lost and, for the moment anyway, is deeply divided from the western world.

Britain tried to avoid, postpone or modify the American policy to the last moment and only voted for it as the lesser of two evils, the other being a fatal breach with the United States. Canada's view was the same. The nations of the Near East strove desperately, until the eleventh hour, for a compromise and the chance of further negotiation with China.

But in the end, when the United States insisted on a vote, to test the will of its allies and to save the United Nations from the old League's fate, it left no alternative to the verdict of guilty.

No one can deny the facts of that guilt. As Mr. Pearson said for Canada, the United Nations condemned North Korea for aggression. China supported North Korea. To excuse China from guilt would be to say that the United Nations was wrong in condemning North Korea, would be to admit, indeed, that the United Nations in fighting the North Koreans, was itself guilty of aggression. The logic of events thus caught up with the United Nations and confronted it with a clear choice.

For this China, doubtless directed by Russia, is solely to blame. It could be argued that at first China was merely trying to defend its boundary along the Yalu River. It was not defence, however, which pushed its armies south of the 38th parallel into South Korea, an independent state under United Nations protection. It was not a will to peace which made China reject terms of settlement not only reasonable but even humiliating to the United Nations. The Communist Government, of which the Chinese people are the helpless pawns, has shown that it does not want peace, except the peace of western surrender, and is bent on conquest, like its Russian master.

Until China abandons that ambition there will be no peace in Asia. A resolution of condemnation is not likely of itself to deter China's plans, whatever they may be. We must prepare for further shocks. All that can be said now is that, by standing together, the free nations will be better prepared than they would have been had their alliance fallen apart this week. Certainly they are prepared to negotiate with China whenever it is ready to seek a settlement.

Mr. Anscomb At The Microphone

MR. ANSCOMB SAYS HE IS WORRIED about the rising costs of the Provincial Government, as well he may be. He goes on the radio to declare that the expansion of social services has gone far enough, that the Government must begin to consider the taxpayer. He thinks that social services may have gone too far since the commitments already made will greatly increase the annual cost to our population grows and more people have to be served. In any case he is prepared to call a halt lest his budget, already by far the highest per capita in the land, gets quite out of hand.

Whether one agrees with him or not, Mr. Anscomb deserves praise for his candor on the radio. Will he be as candid in the Cabinet and the Legislature? Through the accidents of politics Mr. Anscomb finds himself in a coalition government where he cannot always get the exact policy he desires. Nevertheless, Mr. Anscomb is in a much more powerful position than most ministers for he leads a party essential to the coalition and he is Minister of Finance, holding the purse strings. If Mr. Anscomb is serious about economy he can enforce it. If he disagrees with the existing budget, which he himself created, he can revise it as he sees necessary. (Assuredly nobody else will.)

And when the budget is once introduced into the Legislature Mr. Anscomb is responsible for every appropriation in it down to the last penny. He cannot blame it on the Liberals nor can they blame it on him, for all are equally responsible. That responsibility cannot be escaped by radio talks or by the implied excuse that if the Finance Minister had his way things would be different. As long as he is Finance Minister the budget and Mr. Anscomb are one.

The public will now expect to see Mr. Anscomb's radio policies expressed in his financial policies. He cannot speak, and would be the last man to speak in two different voices, one from the radio studio, another from the treasury.

Where Is Steel Needed Most?

VICTORIANS RECOGNIZE THE DESIRABILITY of building a new Point Ellice bridge. Present traffic restrictions on the existing span are irksome, and in the not too distant future renewal of the structure will be imperative. When it is replaced, the replacement should meet requirements for years to come.

The project will doubtless be expensive. Costs, in themselves, need not be a deterrent. What is more questionable now is the possibility of acquiring the steel needed for the job. Victorians must realize, as do the people of Vancouver who want a new bridge, and as does the Provincial Government, which has a big public works program ahead of it, that steel cannot be obtained merely by asking for it and paying for it. Steel is in short supply. Defence preparations have exerted such demands for the commodity that only essential civilian undertakings may expect consideration.

Under these circumstances, citizens of this community must ask themselves specific questions: Where is steel most vitally needed? In a new Point Ellice bridge, or in armaments? Can we justify our plea for steel on the grounds that a new bridge is essential in defence provisions here?

Replacement of the bridge is desirable. There is no question on that point. The load and speed limits—10 miles an hour for carriers under a maximum of 14 tons—are unsatisfactory and could be highly detrimental to the effectiveness of our fire protection services. At the same time, engineers have expressed the opinion that, with observance of the restrictions, the existing span is safe enough for use.

Victoria's application for steel has not yet gone forward. When it does, Victorians should not be disappointed if the application must be rejected.

Just In Case

LAST WEEKEND'S ATOMIC EXPLOSIONS at the U.S. Army's Nevada testing range, while wrapped in security regulations, obviously imply some progress in the development of new forms of the weapon. Hints have been given from time to time sufficient to indicate that the original type of bomb exploded at the close of the Second World War has undergone certain refinements as to power and technique. It may be assumed that the current experiments consummate important phases of the work.

Apart from the technical advances which have been registered, the spectacular detonations serve an additional purpose at this time. As more and more observers agree with Mr. Churchill's opinion that only fear of the atom bomb holds the Red Army out of western Europe, the importance of reminding would-be aggressors that atomic study still has No. 1 priority in the American defence program is emphasized.

The world now has record of 11 atomic explosions, one of them in Russia, two of them (Hiroshima and Nagasaki) as acts of war, and the rest carried out by United States experimenters at home and in the Pacific. The lay citizen, with a well-founded apprehension of the implications of atomic warfare to himself and his family, will hope that the experimental explosions prove adequate as deterrents, in order that their more tragic employment may be avoided. At the same time he will feel a sense of security in the fact that the weapon is there for use if needed. Looking at the state of democracy's defences, there is little else of which he can feel equally confident.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

WE HAVE all heard for years about the "step-saving" kitchen, and most of us have either lived in or visited such a cubby-hole frequently during the past generation. But only last night did I fall to wondering what this business of step-saving is all about. And I was stirred into this, oddly enough, by talking about the Russian police, who every night of the year are breaking a victim down by making him stand still... by saving him steps, in other words. The conversation began with a casual mention of my small son, who had been kept in after school and had been made to stand still in the vice-principal's office for 40 minutes, to expiate the crime of having commented aloud upon the noon-hour school movie. (Russian police again?) We then spoke of the softening-up achieved by compulsory standing-still. And this led us to the step-saving kitchen.

IT IS more restful to stand still than to move occasionally about, is it? For the unfortunately disabled, perhaps it is. But for normal legs nothing is more tiring or unnatural. You can get used to standing still, of course, as any shop assistant or sentry will tell you. But you will also be told that it takes time and discomfort to acquire this not very human knack.

However, once an architect or builder gets a catchword (or catch-notion) like "step-saving" into his head, the thing becomes axiomatic and beyond argument. It is something the same with the modern idea of having ground-floor rooms walled in glass so that the garden comes right into the room, as it were. This plan can no longer be argued about.

NOW, it is all very well on a cool or rainy day in summer to sit indoors enjoying the garden. But on a pleasant day in summer, and in spring and autumn, too, it is better to be right out in the garden itself, surely. And if showers or wind make it impossible to read and write and reflect and eat and otherwise live in the garden during those seasons, then some type of garden shelter is worth all the picture-windows in the world.

As for a really nasty day in winter, why then a house should wrap you round. "What an excellent thing is sleep," said Sancho Panza; "it wraps a man round like a cloak." And so does a house. Or so it should, for often enough it refuses to do so any more... it keeps pushing you out into comparative desolation, when it could be shutting you off and comforting you. Warmth is a thing not to be settled by thermometers alone. It is also of the eye and mind and heart.

IT IS one thing to get out into the winter (which is never very wild in these parts) and observe the changing season. Any man who resents winter doesn't really appreciate nature at all. But it is quite another thing to invite winter indoors, and to reject the pleasure that snugness can give to all honest hearts. Ah, no, in winter a house must have shutters, real or imaginary, if you are going to make the most of both home and season.

I NEED hardly say that I am not against windows as such. A house without them would be a little hell. But a true window accentuates the difference between indoors and out, bringing out the finer aspects of both those worlds between which we divide our happiest hours. It has nothing to do with the false world and false ease of television, whereas the picture window is highly symptomatic of the televisionary mind. It is designed for the man who wants to be anywhere else but where he is.

You will note that I have not mentioned privacy. Good Lord, is it now necessary to make out a case for privacy? I suppose it is. But in the interests of architects lost in the privacy of their own dream-world.

FIREPLACES

IN RECENT answers to the Saturday Evening Post's base attack on the open fireplace (so admirably handled by Bruce Hutchison, among others), I have seen no mention of one argument in favor of the open fire. Indeed, I have heard of only one man who brought it up, and that was long ago. He was an old prospector at Alice Arm, north of Prince Rupert, and as he sat at my brother's hearth he said an open fire was a charming thing and a great comfort. Spitting into an open fire, he said, and hearing the cheerful sizzle, was an absolutely different thing from spitting onto a closed metal heater. And who can say he was wrong?

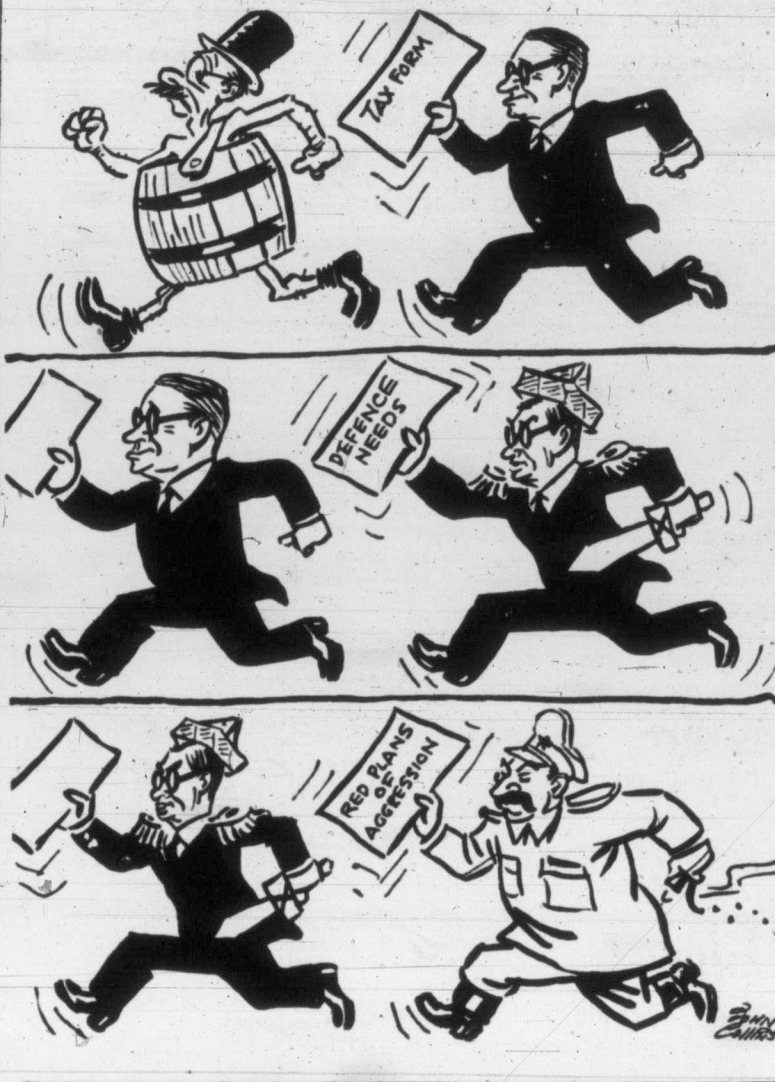

PRECAUTIONS

I SEE that an old lady of 86 set herself on fire last week while attempting to light her pipe. She was rescued by friends who wrapped her in a blanket. Now if she had only been an Indian, she would not only have been able to light her pipe like an old sea-dog, but she would already have been wrapped in a blanket. You've got to look at that. Or do you? Not unless you want to, maybe.

JUMP ON!

THE time is out of joint, and by some spite I'm not sure I alone can set it right. It happens that I'm not a setter-righter. But really more the carping sort of blighter. To set the setter-righters right. My action. Of sitting on them gives them better traction.

Paper Chase

As Our Readers See It

GONE TOO FAR?

The statements of Mr. Anscomb over the air Monday evening, show he does not understand the reasons which have forced a large number of old people to seek the old-age pension, or else he has no soul or sympathy for those who have not been so fortunate as himself.

Many parents spent too much in the education of their children to permit them saving for their old age, and during their earning days, wages and salaries were but a fraction of what they are today.

His statement "It certainly has gone far enough" shows his disposition towards these people, and one which he has always shown. The trouble is, Mr. Anscomb as Finance Minister, diverts a great portion of the sales tax money, which when instituted, I believe, was for the purpose of meeting expenses of the social services and helping municipalities, but much of this income is used for other purposes.

The present working and the rising generation, because of the high wages they are getting, should not need, except possibly in a comparatively few cases, the old-age pension, but without doubt the present old-age people deserve a much better deal than they are getting.

STILL EVOLVING?

In a recent issue a letter over the name "Mrs. Grundy" had a few fanciful things to say about evolution, one of which was that belief in evolution does not necessarily imply atheism. And since sitting room on the fence does seem somewhat crowded, that may be true.

Your correspondent next claims no new species have appeared in the last 2,000 years. But evolution does not produce "new" species, it merely develops or evolves from the old. And it would be difficult to list the evolution or change in the grasses, clovers, grains, fruits, flowers and vegetables during the period mentioned. One might ask where were the tomatoes and potatoes, the logan and boynton berries grown 2,000 years ago?

Your correspondent also states that progress is always followed by retrogression, and asks where are the "monkey" babies? Well several notices of babies being born with tails have appeared in the press recently, so perhaps we are on our way back to monkeys. However, the human skulls found which contained only brain room for 900 C.C., compared with the 1900 C.C. of Daniel Webster, do not seem to agree with the claim that early man had intelligence equal with modern man.

DISLIKES CHANGE

As a regular reader of your paper for many years past, which I have enjoyed, I now notice that you have the "Radio News" printed in a very different style and which I think is not nearly so handy as the former style, and am wondering why the switch over? If there is any chance of going back to the old set-up I shall continue to take your paper.

I do not suppose that I am alone in disliking the present set-up, but I am very "conservative" and hate changes, unless for the better and I do not consider this is so.

NEW UNITED NATIONS?

Mrs. Adamson's letter of Jan. 27 broaches an aspect of the United Nations upon which the public is ill-informed, if not wilfully misled.

The Saturday Evening Post of Jan. 27 in an article entitled "The U.N. Comes Down to Earth," by its acroving reporter, Demaree Bess, lends solid support to her theory that the U.N., like its defunct predecessor, the League of Nations, is fated to failure.

On page 115, Mr. Bess states the question was raised, "Could some other type of international organization better help the U.S. to restore a world balance of power than the existing U.N.?" Although it is not generally known, that question was seriously debated for several weeks just before the Korean attack.

When the Soviet boycott for the first six months of 1950 practically paralyzed the U.N. the whole situation became so messy that the American delegation to the U.N. were disposed to scrap the organization and start afresh with a United Nations such as Mr. Geo. V. Denny Jr., moderator of America's Town Meeting of the Air, who recently asked: "When will we learn that we endanger our lives, our fortunes and our honor when we try to play games with gangsters?" Mr. Denny, a thoughtful and moderate man, compared Moscow's rulers with Al Capone and argued that it was no more sensible to give them a place in the U.N. than it would have been to give Al Capone a seat in the Chicago City Council when he had defacto control over a part of that great city. Mr. Denny concluded "The time has come for us to organize a real United Nations consisting of those who have demonstrated their desire and ability to live and work under law to stop our common enemy before he destroys us one by one."

Something More Than Human

Milwaukee Journal

PROF. HAROLD UREY, one of the nation's greatest physicists, has subscribed to the belief that life exists on at least 100,000 "planets" other than our own.

It is illogical, he says, to believe that in a universe made up of 1,000,000,000,000,000 solar systems like ours there should be only one Earth.

In its present international state, it would seem that one Earth would be enough for any number of solar systems. But Prof. Urey doesn't think it likely.

The other "earths," he says, undoubtedly are inhabited by "beings" with intelligence equal to ours. This doesn't hold too much promise for the universe. What we need are beings smarter than we are. What we want to know from Prof. Urey and his fellow scientists is what kind of "beings" inhabit the other Earths.

Are they human beings—or do they live at peace?

Fresh Air

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, from Washington

AFTER nearly three months of much too visible bewildered defeatism, the responsible leaders of the U.S. government seem to have taken a new look at the Korean problem. Moreover they have found in it reasons for encouragement which may always have existed, but were at least temporarily concealed by the peculiar relationship between the Pentagon and General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

The turning point has been the recent trip to the front of Generals J. Lawton Collins and Hoyt S. Vandenberg. Since the return of the two U.S. chiefs of staff, their reports, particularly their private reports to members of Congress and key men in the administration, have had the effect of fresh air let into an old stale room.

Joseph

Basically, the change in atmosphere derives from a new estimate of the military outlook in Korea. On the surface, to be sure, the odds in the Korean fighting have not altered. Three American Corps, the 1st, 9th and 10th (which include British and other United Nations troops) plus one South Korean Corps, still confront six Chinese "armies," the 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 42nd, and 66th, plus one North Korean "army" and a large assortment of North Korean divisions. The total of enemy troops in the line is currently estimated to be 290,000 Chinese and just over 150,000 North Koreans.

The outlook has none the less changed greatly for two important reasons. First, General Matthew Ridgway succeeded, about two weeks ago, in establishing a good defensive line.

By General Ridgway's aggressive patrolling, the enemy has been held at least a day and a half's march from the front. Thus if the enemy is genuinely massing for a new major attack, his armies cannot reach our positions, as always in the past, under cover of night. He must instead attack by day.

In effect, there is a good deal of evidence that the Chinese commanders have got themselves into the unhappy situation, repeated all through history, of generals whose victories lead them onwards into wilderness.

They have something like 450,000 troops to maintain at the front, in bitter winter weather and in country that was always poor, has been fought over twice, and has almost no remaining food stocks. Their lines of supply, which are under ruthless, continuous air attack, stretch 250 miles to the Yalu River and beyond. In these circumstances, if supply fails and food and ammunition are used up, a large force can actually become a terrible disadvantage. The great number of mouths to feed simply means that everyone goes short and grows weak.

Stewart

All the foregoing facts and views put both the question of the United Nations cease-fire resolution, and the puzzle of the Chinese response to it, in an entirely new light.

We cannot be sure. But for the first time we can at least hope that the Korean situation will improve somewhat, and may even improve very greatly.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT'S a strange instinct," said the Elevator Man, "that drives mankind to be always trying to do something that no one else has been able to do. It makes men climb mountain peaks, sit on flagpoles, compete in the Olympic Games, run Socialist candidates in Oak Bay, pile cars up on unbanked curves and try to get something for nothing. So many people are out to break records. So many people are getting broken in the process. But the striving still goes on, and we'd be a sorry part of creation if it did not. As the old saying has it, once you stop going forward you start to slip back. The same urge that sends men into marathon dances, oyster-eating contests and short story competitions is the one that keeps us alive on this little planet. The struggle to survive takes some mighty funny forms. Going up."

"It's natural enough," said the Elevator Man, "that lots of times you're going to be misunderstood in your particular endeavor. Take that story of the parachutist who landed in a big oak tree and hung dangling from his cords. 'I was trying to make a record,' he shouted to a farmer below. 'Reckon you did it, stranger,' says the rustic. 'You'll be the first man in these here parts to climb down a tree withouten he clumb up it fust.' Mezzanine!"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "while so many people are trying to break records, an awful lot are failing too. While it's nice to be out in front, leading the field, it's a fact that the world depends in large part on those muddling along in the rear. They may have to be shown the way, but they're the ones who have to run the course. As a matter of fact, most of the world's best work is done by people who weren't quite ready to do it, who didn't have quite the right equipment for the job, and for whom the results fell far short of what they were after. That's the way life's race goes on, and being an also-ran is no dishonor."

Two Provinces Paving Way For Age Pensions

Newfoundland, P.E.I. Have Agreed To Changes In Their Constitution

OTTAWA (CP)—Only two provinces—Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island—have agreed so far to constitutional amendments that would allow the federal government to inaugurate a contributory old-age pensions program and permit the provinces to enter the field of indirect sales taxes.

This was disclosed Wednesday in the Commons when Prime Minister St. Laurent tabled correspondence exchanged with the 10 provincial governments. Ontario and Nova Scotia suggested changes in the wording of the amendments drafted by the justice department. Other provinces said they would study the amendments and reply later.

All provinces must agree to the amendments before the government can go ahead with proposals made to the federal-provincial fiscal conference last month.

At the conference, the federal government said that if the provinces agreed to a constitutional amendment it would inaugurate a contributory pension plan under which pensions of $40 a month would be paid to all 70 and over regardless of means. It also offered to share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of pensions to the needy between 65 and 69.

At present pensions of $40 a month—in some provinces a bit more—are paid to those 70 and over who can prove their need. The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost and the provinces the remainder.

Some of the provinces felt they could not shoulder the additional burden that the federal program would place on them without additional sources of revenue. They asked to be allowed to enter the indirect sales-tax field, exclusively in federal jurisdiction now.

The draft amendment would allow the provinces to collect an indirect sales tax of up to 3 per cent of the sale price of an article. The tax would not apply to goods sold for shipment outside of the province. It would require the provinces not to discriminate against goods or retailers from outside their boundaries.

The correspondence was tabled by Mr. St. Laurent shortly before two members, elected in by-elections last October, moved and seconded the traditional motion calling for adoption of an address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

DEBATE READY

Debate was to be launched today by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. He will be followed by Prime Minister St. Laurent, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader. In moving the motion, Dr. W.

H. McMillan (L. Welland) said he hopes Canada soon will have a contributory health plan to help people meet the cost of major sicknesses or accidents. Maurice Breton (L. Joliette, L'Assomption-Montcalm) seconded the motion and expressed the hope that the Canadian constitution will be made flexible enough to allow either the federal or provincial governments to assist the needy.

THE HOME GARDEN

Time To Order Sand Moss For Seedlings

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Just looked at the calendar and got a bit of a shock.

It's Feb. 1st! Winter almost gone and not half the chores completed.

There's the plan for this year's garden—started, but far from finished.

The lawn-mower is sharpened and ready to go, but some of the other tools are still waiting for the paint-brush.

Jack

Next thing we know it will be seed sowing time. That brings to mind the job of fixing those broken seed boxes, and maybe making a few new ones.

One thought just leads to another. After seed boxes come flats for the seedlings. Lots of seed can germinate in a small box, but the seedlings use up a surprising lot of flats when pricked out. Must remember to pick up some ready cut bottoms for the rotted flats, and possibly a few new flats at the same time.

Seed boxes and flats are no use without soil. The first fine day will have to be spent wheeling soil and sterilizing it. Have to order a load of sand, and another bale of peat moss.

Pots will be wanted soon. There's quite a few on hand but they need washing, and that's a job for a rainy day. But the stock should be checked immediately because there is always

SAME ROUTINE ON BIRTHDAY

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent celebrated his 69th birthday anniversary today; but as far as he was concerned it was just another work day.

Mr. St. Laurent has no special plans for celebration. Liberal members of Parliament marked the occasion by placing a basket of roses on the Prime Minister's desk at the House of Commons opening.

Sister Kenny To 'Rest'

MELBOURNE (AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, 64, Australia's polio fighter, arrived here today aboard the liner Orcaades "to spend the rest of my days with the remaining members of my family."

Sister Kenny said her health has been bad for years and "I feel I have earned a rest."

a shortage of the popular sizes later in the season.

Bone meal is another thing which will be needed when potting and re-potting.

Crock, that little piece of broken pot which goes over the drain hole, will be in demand. Usually enough cracked and broken pots around for a good supply, but much time is saved by having them reduced to convenient size ready for using.

Seed labels, and large name stakes for outside use, may seem relatively unimportant now, but when the rush comes it sure is handy to have a stock all ready. Looks like February is going to be a pretty busy month.

Romantic Danube Aids Reds' Anti-Tito Drive

Stalin And Balkan Satellites Use It As Vehicle For Stream Of Propaganda

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BELGRADE (AP)—The Danube was a blue and romantic stream to Johann Strauss, but Stalin and his Balkan satellites have made it Red—at least politically.

The river is a vehicle for a constant stream of hate propaganda against Yugoslavia's Premier Tito.

In 1951 the member countries of the Communist information bureau (Cominform) sent hundreds of bottles and sealed tins floating down the Danube with anti-Tito propaganda leaflets urging Yugoslavs to revolt.

Russian and satellite barges traversing the river dumped hundreds of pounds of similar leaflets on the Yugoslav banks. Cominform shipping continues throughout Yugoslavia's 214-mile stretch of the river because Tito has said he will not resort to shutting off the stream, a vital artery to his hostile neighbors.

DESCRIBES TRICK

The trick of using the Danube and other rivers—to carry Cominform propaganda into Yugoslavia was described by Petar Stambolic, president of the provincial government of Serbia, in a recent speech to the Serb Parliament.

He said: "The propaganda pressure on our country is becoming fantastic in its stubbornness, volume and the methods employed. But its effect is nil. Propaganda material is smuggled across our borders secretly at night and left in the frontier zones. This is done by their (Cominform) border troops or by specially-trained agents. These 'propagandists' frequently use firearms in their work."

Stambolic also claimed that Soviet and other Cominform diplomats still stationed in Belgrade toss leaflets in the streets from their automobiles.

The Yugoslavs confiscate and burn this material as fast as they can. But they haven't the facilities for jamming the hostile Cominform radios, which have poured a day-and-night stream of anti-Tito invective into Yugoslavia since the country broke with the Cominform in 1948.

BIG BLUE BRUISES on legs were displayed today by C.P.R. paintship foreman Tommy Southern, 443 Government, one of heroic rescuers of six youths in Beacon Hill Park lake Sunday. Southern, who is nearly 57, spent more than 20 minutes in chilly waters aiding nephew Jack Parnall to pull boys from water. Bruises were from chunks of ice and unintentional kicks from frantic youths.

STRANGE NEW WEATHER

Jet Plane Passengers Due For Surprises

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—You'll find strange new weather when you fly as a passenger in jet planes at heights up to eight miles.

Invisible, meandering tongues of air moving up to 100 miles an hour dart through bigger air currents going only perhaps half as fast. Called jet streams, they may be 200 to 300 miles wide, and 1,000 miles long. Weather men carefully map them, for they can send planes into a bumpy dance.

Ordinary headwinds will range up to 150 miles an hour. From takeoff to cruising level at 40,000 feet, the weather outside may change 200 degrees in 12 to 15 minutes.

Engineers are planning jet transports for 40,000 feet, where jets can get high speed at the least spending of fuel. Jet fuel is cheap, but is used up fast, so winds have to be charted carefully in advance.

SUDDEN TURBULENCE

One problem is sudden turbulence and winds in clear air, which pilots can't see. The plane get a sudden jolt, and may bounce up and down with short, sharp hammering sensations. Pilots say it feels like driving a car fast over railroad ties. But you'll be above thunderstorms or milky weather. Thunderheads may reach up that high, but the clouds will be ice-crystal, not super-cooled water.

8th Army Forces Resume Offensive

U.S. 8th Army forces today went into the eighth day of their offensive along the west and central Korea war front. A U.N. tank task force ran a gauntlet to enter Wonchon, a town on a lateral road running east of Suwon (1). Intelligence reports suggested Chinese troops (soldier symbol) were concentrated in pear-shaped mountain region southeast of Seoul. Allied forces drove through Hoangsong (2) to edge nearer to 38th Parallel. Five undermanned Red battalions were caught by Allied patrols in Yongwol-Tanyang region (shaded area) as they attempted to infiltrate U.N. lines.—(NEA)

Senate Group Acts On St. Lawrence Project

WASHINGTON (CP)—A group of 22 United States senators arranged for introduction today of legislation to authorize construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

The bipartisan measure has the approval of President Truman. In recent messages to Congress he has emphasized that the development is "urgently needed to further the defence effort."

Senator Theodore Green (D., R.I.), in a prepared Senate speech, said:

"We who now offer this (bill) do so with the conviction that the course of events has, after many years, made the benefits of the dual-purpose project apparent even to the most skeptical and has so increased the urgency of our realizing those benefits that the proposal will receive the congressional approval which it has so long and so vainly merited."

STRATEGIC REQUIREMENT

He said the project "must be built" as a strategic requirement of national security and the continental defence of the United States and Canada.

Oak Bay United Membership Grows

Splendid reports from more than a dozen organizations were presented at the annual meeting of Oak Bay United Church.

The minister, Dr. W. W. McPherson, reported 57 had been added to the membership, which now stands at 393, with 65 absent members.

G. H. Gardiner, treasurer for 35 years, reported $13,000 had been raised by the church and its organizations for all purposes, and of that about 25 per cent was for missionary and benevolent purposes.

The report of the Men's Club was prepared by the past president, P. E. G. Johns, and read by G. H. Gardiner.

Elected to the board of stewards were: H. Kinnear, J. N. Rowell, Thos. Claxton, G. H. Gardiner and D. Robertson.

Joining with Green in the introduction were 11 other Democrats and 10 Republicans.

Similar legislation has already been introduced in the House of Representatives.

The project, first considered more than 50 years ago, would open the Great Lakes to ocean-going shipping and harness the immense hydro-electric potential of the St. Lawrence River. Canada has long been in favor of it, but ratification of the project has been stalled in Congress since 1941.

COST $1,000,000,000

On the basis of most recent estimates the development would cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000,000.

Green said there is "no doubt whatever" that the power the project would yield is needed and that it can be supplied at "exceedingly low cost."

Green said that with respect to the transportation phase of the seaway, "controversy still lingers." But "even here, however, the case has become so strong that all reasonable men must, I think, concede its basic merit."

"Only by construction" of the seaway could the United States assure itself of a "safe and efficient" route for the importation of iron ore.

He cited the "great deposits" of high-grade ore now under development in Quebec and Labrador. Transportation of this ore over the proposed seaway to the steel mills of the Great Lakes would be "vastly safer than any other alternative route of importation."

Radioactive Snow Bother To Canadian Scientists

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—Snow at Ottawa and perhaps elsewhere in Canada has become charged with an unusual degree of radioactivity probably arising from last week's atomic explosions in Nevada, officials say.

But, the National Research Council added, this invisible radioactive dust which fell in an early-Monday snowstorm and settled on the top is "quite harmless" and is more of a nuisance to scientists than anything else.

An official statement said the only reason the excess radioactivity was discovered was the "very great sensitivity" of N.R.C. instruments used to detect cosmic rays.

When these instruments acted in an unusual way, someone went outdoors and brought in some snow and the culprit was found.

The Redhead Gets A Strike

One of the top bowlers in the Commercial Tenpin League, year in and year out, Melvin "Red" Lawson will be among those competing in the forthcoming city-tenpin bowling championships at Gibson's Bowladrome. The team events will take place this Sunday, with the singles and doubles scheduled for Feb. 11. Lawson is a member of the Tillicums' squad and was caught in action last night by Times photographer Irving Strickland. He holds a 177 average.

COLEMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM COLEMAN

QUEBEC CITY—M. Wilfrid Lepine, the scourge of the dog-racing set, is busily building muscle and sinew with habitation peapoup as he prepares to defend his championship in the International Derby which will be staged at Ottawa next week. As the fateful date approaches, M. Lepine is being fed under forced-draught by a crew of trainers and his muscles are bulging so alarmingly that he has been forced to have the waistband of his trousers let out three times in the past week.

M. Lepine is the pride of Quebec City and he is the joy and despair of the dog-racing world. He is the first man to give the canine industry a real shot in the arm since Leonhard Seppala made the run to Nome with the serum-and-the-rum.

At the same time, he is slightly embarrassing to the canine industry because, his canines scarcely conform with the best standards of the Westchester Kennel Club. They utterly defy classification and, indeed, one of them appears to be a cross between a bloodhound and a midge English automobile. Instead of barking, he honsks and he carries headlights and a set of bumpettes.

M. Lepine and his "dogs" (pardon the word) made their first appearance in the Ottawa International Derby two years ago.

The official veterinarian strode out of the Chateau Laurier early on the morning of the race to inspect the teams.

What Else?

The Lepine hounds were lolling happily against lamp-posts and hydrants, chewing the tires off parked cars and generally offending the regular canine set. The pure-bred Siberians and others of the doggy haute monde were sniffing disdainfully and ignoring their raffish rivals but they kept themselves at a respectful distance. The Derby committee held a hurried consultation and, finally, the chairman accented M. Lepine.

"Are you sure that these are DOGS?" asked the chairman in a quavering voice.

"Yup," replied M. Lepine stoutly—and that seemed to be that. M. Lepine didn't win in his first try but—last year—he copped the 84-mile race by two hours, in a common canter.

Peace River Jim

Officials of the Westchester Kennel Club are alarmed by the likelihood that Lepine and his mutts will continue to win the race each year until he wears a long white beard, down to here.

To be truthful, there is little possibility of beating him unless Colonel J. K. "Peace River Jim" Cornwall can be lured out of retirement. "Peace River Jim" was Canada's most fleet-footed pioneer but now he sits in a comfortable home in Victoria, cracking his knuckles and thinking of the days when he ate his own moccasins after he ran out of pate de Fois gras on the trail.

Colonel Cornwall operated the first mail route out of Fort McMurray. He used his own dog-teams and they were magnificent black dogs that could outrun a gnu or wildebeast. However, Colonel Cornwall could outrun the DOGS and he'd stop only occasionally for a change of oil at service stations along the route. If the dogs tired, "Peace River Jim" would spell them off by putting one in each parka pocket and another around his neck while he stepped into the traces with the fresher hounds.

Oh, For The Good Old Days

As a matter of fact, "Peace River Jim" traveled so fast that the Northern Alberta Railways abandoned plans to build a line along his route. They knew that he would drive their trains out of business.

It was the coming of the airplane that finished him. When the first Junkers low-wing monoplane beat him into Fort Smith by 45 minutes, he became embittered and quit.

It appears to be M. Lepine's race again this year—but Colonel Cornwall would have him whimpering and crying for mercy after they had sprinted the first 70 or 80 miles.

Week-End Sees Soccer Minors In Busy Bill

With two games Saturday afternoon and six on Sunday, every team in the Vancouver Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer League will see action this week-end.

Mac's Champs will meet A.N. and A.F. Vets of the third division Saturday afternoon at Heywood Avenue, while Argosy Cafe will tangle with Cordova Bay Rovers of the fourth division at upper Beacon Hill. Both games will start at 1.

Sunday's bill, also commencing at 1, sees Heaneys meet Duncan Native Sons in a junior division fixture at upper Beacon Hill, while Balmoral Thistles engage Saanich at Heywood Avenue.

Sunday will also see an exhibition tilt when Argosy Cafe's fourth division team engage the Pee Wees at Macdonald Park.

O.H.A. Still Undecided As Playoff Time Nears

The Ontario Hockey Association's four senior and 10 junior clubs today moved into the final complete month of league play with league officials still undecided as to how many teams will get into the playoffs.

There has been official talk that the four teams in the senior circuit and at least eight in the junior group will be given a chance.

A meeting of league and club officials is expected to be held shortly when the question will finally be settled.

In the league standings themselves, the two Toronto clubs—St. Michael's and Marlboros—are assured of either first or second place in the major series unless they suffer a complete collapse.

St. Mike's are in first place with 41 points. They have won 16 games, tied two and lost seven. Marlboros are 11 points behind with 15 wins, one tie and nine setbacks. Both clubs have played four four-point games.

Hamilton Tigers are in third place with 26 points. They downed the cellar-dwelling Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 9 to

Canuck Puck Luck Turns On O'Hearn

Gets Rough Baptismal; Royals Here On Friday

With all eyes on the impending clash between the league-leading New Westminster Royals and Victoria Cougars here tomorrow night, Coast Hockey League action last night saw Seattle Ironmen move to within one point of the fifth-place Canucks.

The Ironmen turned the trick despite the presence of a new goalie—Nip O'Hearn—in the Vancouver nets.

O'Hearn took most of the beating as the Canucks bowed to the Ironmen, 8 to 4. Hec Highton, the club's regular net-minder since going to Vancouver from the Cougars, was benched.

Defenceman Danny Nixon and forward Rudy Filion accounted for most of the damage, each scoring two goals. Seven goals were scored in a wild second period as Seattle took a 5 to 1 lead. The Canucks again played with 12 men, Seattle with 15.

FOUR-POINT GAME

Tomorrow night the Royals invade town and the Cougars are itching for revenge. The league leaders are the only club to defeat the Cougars since Christmas Day, performing the feat twice, both times on New Westminster ice.

The game is a four-pointer for both clubs, the Cougars having a chance to move within four points of the lead with a victory. A Royal win would stretch their margin to eight points once again.

Summary of last night's game follows:

VANCOUVER 4, SEATTLE 8
First period—Seattle, Nixon (Filion, Bell) 1-0. Penalties: Maxwell, Crozier.
Second period—Seattle, Kerr (Maxwell) 4-3; 4, Seattle, Lewick (Nixon) 8-0; 4, Vancouver, Russell (Reardon) 9-0; 4, Seattle, Filion (Thorne, Bell) 12-3; 7, Vancouver, McPherson (Shill, Reardon) 15-4; 8, Vancouver, Schmidt (Defelice) 16-6.
Penalties: none.
Third period—Seattle, Filion (Nixon) 2-3; 10, Seattle, Thorne (Bell) 10-5; 11, Vancouver, Baliance (Russell) 17-11; 12, Seattle, Tullifer (Thorne, Bell) 18-4.
Penalties: Narduzzi, Lewick.

ARCTIC CLUB BOASTS RANGY HOOP SQUAD

Meet 'Viduals Here On Saturday

Basketball fans will see a colorful mainland cage quintette in action when Victoria Individuals meet Vancouver Arctic Club at Badminton Hall Saturday night.

Arctic Club is replacing Vancouver Eilers, who were unable to make the trip this week-end and will show against 'Viduals Feb. 10.

Biggest mon on the visiting club is Bill Siben, who plays both forward and guard and stands six feet nine inches in his socks. Siben and six feet two-inch Bill Holme are the only holdovers from last year's Arctic Club.

Among the newcomers are Tom Bryan, who played the past two seasons with Washington State; Conrad Bohanan, Jack Kyle and Don Inkster who came to Arctic from Vancouver Y.

Ralph "Pop" Pay, former Pat Bay Gremlin, is well known here, having been a member of the air force team which lifted the Canadian championship during the war.

Saturday night's game at the Badminton Hall will get under way at 9, following a preliminary tilt set for 730.

In the other game at Mount Douglas the home team emerged victorious by the narrow margin of 18 to 14.

At the high school gym Chris Boyd netted 22 points to lead her team to victory. Viola Yetman scored 4 points for the losers. J. Johnson and Hearn with nine and seven points respectively were tops for Mount Douglas.

$31,350 PLEDGED

Curling Club Extends Date For Debentures

At an extraordinary general meeting of the Victoria Curling Club, called to order last night in the City Hall council chambers, 60 curlers authorized the executive to delay the issuance of debentures to May 1, to change the interest rate from 4 per cent to 4½ per cent, and to place the debentures with city bond houses to be sold on a commission basis.

Secretary Mark Trueman told the meeting that of a total of $31,350 pledged in voluntary canvassing, $14,965 had been paid in cash and was currently on deposit in the building fund.

COSTLY PROJECT

In answer to numerous questions from the membership concerning the $100,000 objective, it was pointed out that the figure had been set as an outside sum, and that every effort would be made to keep the cost of the projected curling rink well below that total.

Commenting on the suggestion that "a roof over eight sheets of ice" was all that was needed, city building inspector J.W. Oosterink said that the proposed rink site at Quadra and Caledonia was in a No. 2 fire zone, and that any structure erected there must conform to fire regulations. "I will see to it that it does," said Mr. Oosterink.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

The Cougars were playing the Canucks. Everything was in readiness. Pacific Coast Hockey League president, Al Leader, had a special constable on duty in the vicinity of Section Seven mezzanine of the Memorial Arena.

Three constables were seen taking up strategic positions in and around the Vancouver Canucks' players box before game time.

The Times had a spy—Operator 13—located in the section concerned.

Referee Dick Davis only smiled wanly when asked before the contest if he expected any trouble. Linesman Bert Nelson flexed his bulging biceps preparatory to skating out on the ice. The public address announcer suggested that it wouldn't be as cold if spectators desisted from smoking, thus not necessitating the use of the fans to clear the building of smoke.

Four thousand four hundred and seventy-one hockey fans (capacity for the arena) stood up for the playing of the national anthem. Then it happened.

Victory Before Loyalty

The proud and haughty Cougars, utterly disdainful of decorum, turned their backs on their rivals. Now this isn't done in the Memorial Arena when two Canadian teams are playing. It is only when an American club is in town that both teams face the north wall of the building where the U.S. banner is unfurled. But the Cougars turned their backs, not only on the Canucks but on the Canadian flag. Tush! Tush! This may have been an omen, and apparently it was though not in the manner expected.

No riots! No fights! No Maelstrom Murph! Just a sound whipping for the Canucks.

The special policeman enjoyed every minute of it. His report to Leader was probably brief and to the point: "No trouble in Section Seven." The others in the constabulary also enjoyed it. They kept warm by cheering the Cougars on. The public address announcer lit up a cigarette.

Referee Davis spent a quiet evening, his only trouble coming from identifying Cougar point-makers. Nelson unflexed his biceps. But the spy. Ah, yes. The spy!

Operator 13 Reports

Here is his report, given through the courtesy of two fans who willingly gave up their seats in Section Seven:

"Sports Department Operator No. 13, having been deliberately planted in that terrible Section Seven whence come all jibes at Mr. Chamberlain, submits the following monition surreptitiously scribbled on a hat band.

"Tut, tut," and "My goodness" and other such colorful phrases were all I, the bewildered spy, could glean from this reportedly riotous group. No one, not even the grey-haired needer in the front row (aisle seat) could get a rise out of Murph, whose head dangled precariously close to the ice at times as the Cougars dithered and dallied their way to victory.

"However, I believe we were sabotaged. Awestruck by the morbidity of this section, the light didn't dawn on me until after the game was over and my duty completed. It was then I heard the reeve of a certain local municipality remark to his companion, a former reeve of said municipality: 'Quiet tonight in Section Seven, wasn't it?' 'Yeah,' his well-dressed confere replied. 'Wonder what that sports writer fellow thinks of us now.' In closing out this report I reiterate: 'We've been sabotaged. Somebody's been spying on us.'"

They were mailed by a person or persons still unknown to the police but . . . and here secrecy prevents us from revealing further information, they were mailed from Section Seven.

Operator 13 is available for future assignments.

FORM SOLID BLOC

Cards Refuse To Take Salary Cuts Lightly

NEW YORK (UP)—Four top-flight members of the St. Louis Cardinals formed a solid "we-refuse-to-take-a-cut" bloc today.

Reading from right to left, the dissatisfied players are outfielder Enos Slaughter, second baseman Al (Red) Schoendienst and pitchers Harry Brecheen and Howie Pollet.

Slugging Stan Musial, unworried about any salary slash, was scheduled to leave by airplane for a tour of army camps in Germany today and said contract negotiations with Cardinal club owner Fred M. Saigh would have to wait for at least three more weeks before they are completed.

Slaughter, 34-year-old Redbird captain who batted .290 last season and drove in 101 runs, is "doggoned" if he can figure out why he is being asked to take an estimated $6,000 cut. Furthermore, he says he'll be "doggoned" if he'll sign for that figure.

Schoendienst, who gave the National League its all-star victory with a 14th inning homer last July, likewise is puzzled. He batted .276 last season but was considered one of the best infielders in the league. He is being offered a 14 per cent cut but he isn't having any, he has notified Saigh.

Brecheen, once the club's outstanding pitcher, won eight games and lost 11 and says he is being asked to take a $6,300 cut.

Faces Double Duty

This week-end is a big one for Don Woodhouse. The former cage star first of all will be sitting on the bench at Badminton Hall Saturday night when his senior A basketball Individuals take on Vancouver Arctics in an exhibition starting at 9. Then on Sunday Don will commence gunning for the city all-events bowling title as the tenpin team events hold sway. Don won the singles title last year.

Elimination Faces Nanaimo Ice Squad

For a while last night it looked like Nanaimo would achieve its ambition of beating Victoria Vics on the Victoria ice but a rugged third-period smashed the dream as the Vics came back gamely to cop the Island junior hockey verdict, 4 to 2.

Locals were shut out for two periods by the phenomenal goal-tending of pint-sized Spanky Hodgson, but exploded for four goals in the third stanza.

Nanaimo will now have to defeat Vics in their two remaining games to qualify for the team-playoff.

The game was only 1 minute and 35 seconds old when Nanaimo forward Jack Milburn snared a loose puck off the boards and whipped a quick shot behind Derek McCooy.

Barrie Currie notched the second counter when his shot from the blue line eluded the Vics goalie. There was no scoring in the second period but play roughened up considerably.

At the 1:23 mark of the last frame, Dick Rose drew Hodgson out and passed to Bob McConchy who had no trouble finding the open corner for the Vics first goal. Hodges tied the game up when he batted in his own rebound in a goal-mouth pile-up.

Norm Kowalyk proved to be the hero of the fray when he banged the winning goal into the upper left-hand corner as the up-landers showed signs of wilting under the pressure. Bill Chisholm added the insurance marker at 16:35.

Goals by Holroyd and Peace gave Maroons a 2 to 1 victory over Bruins in a juvenile game. Bob Haima scored for the bears.

In the same league, Capitals extended their winning streak by dumping Senators 3 to 1. Starry Ray Petch, Caps goalie, had his shutout string broken.

Pittsburgh Honeymoon For Leafs' McCormack

Toronto Maple Leafs gave lanky Johnny McCormack a unique wedding present when they sent him downstairs to their American Hockey League farm club, Pittsburgh Hornets. The penalty-killing ace of Leafs marched to the altar Tuesday and the team's brass announced Wednesday that he would go to the minors to strengthen the Hornets, who recently lost their top scorer, Rudy Migay.

Speculation is that the bridegroom was demoted for getting married in mid-season without permission. However, it's felt that the Leafs may recall McCormack before Feb. 15—the last date on which National Hockey League teams may call up players from the minor leagues.

McCormack's wedding came as something of a surprise to his team-mates. They knew he was to be married but thought he would wait until after the hockey season.

All six teams swing into action again tonight, and three of them will be jockeying for positions. Montreal Canadiens play hosts to the Leafs, New York Rangers clash with the Red Wings at

UNBEATEN IN LAST 11 GAMES

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampers punched home four goals in the final period here last night to dump Edmonton Flyers 4 to 1 and move into sole possession of first place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

The game marked the 11th in a row without a setback for the Stampers. The victory enabled them to move two points ahead of Edmonton. They also have two games in hand.

Fred Smitten fired the lone Edmonton goal in the first period. Then, after a scoreless middle session, Archie Wilder, Mitch Pechet, Sid Finney and Johnny Millard scored in the final period for the Calgary victory.

Detroit, and Boston Bruins meet the hapless Black Hawks at Chicago.

RICHARD OUT

Maurice (Rocket) Richard will remain out of action for the Toronto encounter. His charley horse has been slow in responding to treatment and it is unlikely that the circuit's leading goal sniper will be in action for at least three more games.

Leafs also will have added strength with the return of Teeter Kennedy. Montreal fans are anxiously waiting to see Kennedy and rearguard Tom Johnson hook up. The last time they met both were given match penalties and Johnson took a $75 fine.

Johnny Greco Starts On Return Trail

MONTREAL (BUP)—Jolth' Johnny Greco, Canadian welterweight champion, was pared down to 155 pounds today and training vigorously for one more whack at the fistic fortune that by-passed him for the past several months.

The 27-year-old Montreal brawler, newly-recovered from an eye injury and an internal ailment, was down seven pounds from the fleshy 162 that he registered on his return to active training late in January.

He said he hoped to whittle off at least another five pounds before Feb. 19, when he will return to the ring in the feature bout of a Forum card against a still-unnamed opponent.

Matchmaker Dave Castilloux said he intended to get Greco the best man available. He said recently he would pick the Montreal slugger's target from among Vic Cardell, Tony Janiro, Billy Graham, Eddie Glosa and Johnny Bratton.

It will be the first start for the Canadian welter champ since he crumpled to the canvas under the pounding fists of Cuban Kid Gavilan in the Montreal Royal's Baseball Stadium here last Aug. 16.

New R.C.A.F. Auxiliary Squadron For Vancouver

OTTAWA — A new R.C.A.F. auxiliary squadron will be formed later this year in Vancouver, it was announced by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton. The squadron will be the second such reserve unit to be formed in Vancouver, and the 12th to be set up in Canada since the war.

Personnel for the new squadron will start their training with the other Vancouver squadron, No. 422.

To be known as No. 443, the unit will perpetuate the wartime 443 (Hornet) squadron, formed in 1942, and disbanded in 1946.

It will be equipped initially with Mustang and Harvard aircraft. The squadron will operate from Sea Island and will share accommodation and flying facilities with 442. These already exist at Sea Island and can be extended for the new unit.

The wartime squadron which the new Vancouver reserve unit will perpetuate was formed at Dartmouth, N.S., in 1941 as 127

B.C. Export Of Beef Cattle Up By Nearly 6,000

B.C. cattlemen put some "beef" into their operations last year. Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman said today 65,986 cattle were shipped from the province in the 12 months of 1950 which is an increase of almost 6,000 over the 1949 figure.

He said it was significant that the U.S. showed an increase of shipments from the interior to 5,782 head from the previous year. The 1950 total from the interior to south of the border was 8,007.

The U.S. market was the determining factor in maintaining the highest level of prices that had even been seen in Canada.

Mr. Bowman said the beef cattle industry appeared to be one section of the agricultural economy of the province which is in a sound position.

Nehru Criticized Over Dispute With Pakistan

Prominent Conservative Peer Charges Aims, Attitude In Flat Contradiction

LONDON (CP)—A British peer said Wednesday world opinion is definitely against India—and Prime Minister Nehru in particular—in the dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Lord Vansittart, who loathes Communism and doesn't hesitate to say so, wrote in the Conservative Daily Telegraph: "It is time for someone to say flatly that Mr. Nehru's attitude and his professed aims flatly contradict each other."

The Conservative peer, who was chief diplomatic adviser to the Foreign Office from 1938 to 1941, said it seems strange that Nehru should have so much conciliation for Communist China and so little for a fellow state in the Commonwealth, Pakistan.

Britain and other Commonwealth countries have been scrupulously neutral in the three-year-old dispute over Kashmir. Lord Vansittart is the first prominent public figure here to take sides.

Editorial opinion has also been against India. Reports during the recent Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference that Pakistan had accepted three possible solutions to the conflict, while India rejected them all, provoked criticism of Nehru by two Conservative newspapers, the Daily Telegraph and the Yorkshire Post.

16,525 G.I.'S NOW IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Air Minister Arthur Henderson said today there are about 16,525 U.S. servicemen now stationed in Britain.

In reply to a question by Labor Minister Fred Longden, Henderson told the Commons the U.S. has about 1,500 naval, 15,000 air force and 25 army personnel in Britain.

The monthly meeting of the Overseas League will be held next Monday at 3.30 at Loughheed's Banquet Club. Mrs. Gordon Downes will talk on "Denmark Today."

Essen Is Filled With 'Atmosphere Of Joy' As Krupp Prepares His Return From Prison

ESSEN (CP)—A column of cars left here today for Landsberg prison in Bavaria to bring home Alfred Krupp, German arms king, and eight of his associates.

United States authorities Wednesday reduced their war-crimes sentences to time already served, and they are expected to be released within 48 hours.

The West German news agency DPA reported that Essen, home town of Krupp's industrial empire, is filled with "an atmosphere of joy."

Cables of congratulation have been pouring in for Mrs. Krupp and the wives of the other directors. In the last few months many Krupp employees and pensioners had offered to serve the directors' sentences for them, the agency said.

Krupp, 44, was originally sentenced to 12 years for employment of slave labor during the war.

Power Commission Settles In New Home

Move into its new $477,000 building at Burdett and Blanshard Streets was completed today by B.C. Power Commission. It will be day or two before offices are functioning smoothly again. "It's hard to get used to adequate working space after the crowded offices we've had," said one of accounts staff in picture. Four-story building brings all branches of commission together for first time.

Nation Needs Co-Ordinated Plan To Aid Physically Handicapped, Gregg Declares

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said today Canada needs a well-rounded plan for aiding persons physically handicapped other than by industrial accidents or war wounds.

Don't Use Torch To Thaw Out Pipes

If you want fire troubles use a blowtorch to thaw out frozen water pipes. It's a sure way to have firemen pay a visit to your home.

Fire Chief Robert Brindle says it is a foolish practice "when hot water or hot cloths will do the same thing—without the danger of causing a fire."

An alternative: Call a plumber. Department answered two alarms for fires caused by blowtorches.

co-ordinated plan in effect in Canada today for the benefit of those who have a handicap brought about by some event not connected with industry or with war service.

Health Minister Martin said a man's ability is far more important than his disability. Employers, he added, need to be educated about the value of handicapped workers, because "our handicapped are needed in the labor force more today than ever before."

GOOD FOR BUSINESS

"Employers should hire handicapped persons—not on humanitarian grounds, but because it is good for business."

"They should be reminded that a physical handicap is not necessarily a job handicap. No one is perfect—everyone has a deficiency of some kind. A man's ability is far more important than his disability."

Mr. Gregg's deputy, Arthur MacNamara, also addressed the conference. The three-day meeting brought together representatives of various groups doing volunteer work for handicapped persons, of all provincial governments and of the federal departments of labor, health and veterans' affairs.

Mr. Gregg said that there are thousands of Canadians who, because of handicaps, are unemployed or under-employed because they are believed incapable of self-sustaining employment.

Britain's Communists Issue New Manifesto

Mild-Appearing Document Is Seen As Cloak For Party's Real Aims

LONDON (CP)—A new policy document issued by Britain's Communist Party suffered a gruelling baptism of fire today in the non-Communist press.

A writer in the Liberal News Chronicle promptly tagged it the "hammer-and-cyclamen" manifesto—because it is allegedly designed to make the party look less "Red" than usual and because it was issued in a 22-page pamphlet with a cover tinted cyclamen-pink.

The manifesto published Wednesday describes as a "slandering misrepresentation" the accusation that Communists aim at attaining a Soviet Britain by aggression and abolition of Parliament.

Douglas Hyde, former news editor of the Communist Daily Worker who renounced Communism in 1948, wrote in the Conservative Yorkshire Post that the pamphlet is "so mild-sounding and so very much a cover for the party's real activities and intentions that it is certain to be accompanied by a new drive within the party itself to ensure that the members shall not be guilty of falling for their own propaganda."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said in an editorial: "Perhaps the divergencies in the new manifesto are merely tactical and the points that have been switched lead only to some important siding where questions can be left in the air. But it is not inconceivable that British Communists may ultimately find themselves sharing in the Titoist heresy. We shall see."

Suggests Sweepstakes For Charitable Groups

One Of Many Resolutions Presented Federal House By Private Members

OTTAWA (CP)—J. L. MacDougall (L.-Vancouver Burrard) placed on the Commons order paper Wednesday a motion urging that churches, service clubs and other charitable organizations be allowed to hold sweepstakes and lotteries.

This was one of a dozen private members' motions of which notice was given as the chamber opened the 1951 session. Some were a repetition of resolutions placed before the House in the last session but not considered.

John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) again introduced his motion calling for consideration

Volunteer Fire Department In Cen. Saanich

Central Saanich Council will go ahead with plans for a volunteer fire department with separate crews stationed at Brentwood, Keating and Saanichton, according to a decision made by the council at its meeting Tuesday night.

Fire Chief G. A. Gardner of the Sidney and North Saanich Fire Department has offered to train crews for Central Saanich, which will co-operate with the Sidney department.

Two ratepayers supported Reeve Pickles' stand that appraisal of the assets of Saanich and Central Saanich should be done by an independent firm.

Robert Fair (S.C.-Battle River) reintroduced his resolution urging the granting of clear titles to soldier settlers of the First World War and Phileas Coia (L.-Matapedia-Matane) suggested again that "O Canada" be designated as the country's national anthem.

Other motions deal with Dominion Day, St. Lawrence River erosion, tolls on St. Lawrence bridges and the civil service.

NURSERY RHYME TAUNT LEADS TO ATTACK

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—George Weslake, a foreman, doesn't like the old nursery rhyme using his name.

Witnesses in court Wednesday said he was offended when one of his workers taunted him with "Georgie Porgie, puddin' pie."

Weslake is alleged to have smacked the worker—a fast right to the face—and now is charged with assault.

The hearing was adjourned a week for the calling of two more witnesses.

TV POPULARITY GROWS

The U.S. public spent $1,500,000 during 1950 for television sets, Frank M. Folsom, president of the Radio Corporation of America, reports. To meet public demand, television manufacturers stepped up production schedules so that, in a single month, more sets became available than during the entire year of 1948. Set purchases increased more than 100 per cent over 1949, according to Mr. Folsom.

$500,000 Damage In Houston Fire

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston's biggest downtown fire in 20 years caused severe damage to seven stores Wednesday. Fire department officials said damages will exceed $500,000.

One fireman, believed to have suffered a heart attack, collapsed and was dead upon arrival at hospital. Two others were overcome by smoke.

By ART STOTT

Back in the days of the Roman Empire, Dr. Joe Gayton tells me, life expectancy was 22 years. Lots of men lived longer. Julius Caesar was 56 or 58, depending on which authorities you believe, before the hatchetmen got him. And Cicero took it upon himself to write a treatise on old age that didn't impress a lot of us in elementary Latin. The average was so low, presumably, because infant mortality was high and a succession of wars didn't do much for the life insurance business.

Even at the beginning of this century, life expectancy didn't look too optimistic. You had a 50-50 chance, though, of sticking around until you were 48 or 49. Now, 50 years later, the general average is 67 years, and in this city it's higher.

GREATER VICTORIA records show that 56 per cent of our deaths occur at ages over 70. We've come a long way from the Romans. The emphasis on age in this locality isn't hard to understand. Without quoting statistics, it's obvious that people from other parts of Canada and from other parts of the world like to retire in or around Victoria. The climate's reasonable, the tempo's not too fast, and the sunset of life looks good by the western sea.

The appeal of this region is apparent even in the advanced middle-aged visitor. When he leaves the city he'll turn to you, as often as not, and say that someday, when he's finished working, he'd like to come back and finish his days here.

Because so many people have made good on that pledge to themselves, Victoria has a king-size problem among its elderly folk. Too few of them, and too few of us who are younger, have figured out a pattern that will fulfill the promise of later days.

THE MODERN way of life doesn't seem to make adequate provision for that class. They come here to rest, or they grow old here. Their ability to get around declines with their advancing years. They sit and think. Then they sit and grow lonely. Then they sit and lose interest.

In recent years the time-honored picture of the old folks at home has faded. Families don't assume the obligation of caring for their aging own the way they once did. Experts don't blame the younger people for that. They know how difficult it is to preserve a home, with the atmosphere a home should have, when the noise of children annoys the tired nerves of the old people. They know the difficulties of two women in a kitchen.

THEY PHRASE the present-day trend in a question: "How many modern homes do you find with an extra bedroom?"

It isn't that young parents of today are lacking in affection for their parents. They realize, though—and without reading some of the more depressing novels—that their energies can't be split too frequently between care of their own young and care of the aged. Maybe that attitude is selfish. Maybe it's just sensible and practical.

At all events, modern trends and Victoria's over-balance on the side of an aged population, provide problems that are taxing the minds of those intent on solving them. Most obvious solutions suffer an economic handicap. Adequate housing, at rentals older people with small fixed incomes can afford, is in short supply. Better quarters would go a long way to help, physically and mentally, the pensioners now confined to single rooms.

OVER AND above that is the need for satisfactory recreation. Sixty-up clubs are valuable. So are other organizations which provide activity for the tired and retired who are getting on in years. They need a leavening in their days. Continuous association with their own age group isn't quite enough. They need the mixture of life that young people and children can give them—often best in small doses.

One of the potential solutions is a long term educational program that draws the attention of men and women in their late 30's and early 40's to the fact that someday they, too, will be old. The sooner they develop abiding interests, the better. With adequate hobbies their declining years need not be empty. That's easy enough to say. It's a little harder to impress on men and women in full possession of their vigor.

St. Louis and St. Ann's students attend mass for skating victim.

Large Turnout Of Students At Youth's Funeral

St. Andrew's Cathedral was filled this morning when solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated for 16-year-old Charles O'Sullivan, victim of last Sunday's ice break-through at Beacon Hill Park.

Most of those in attendance were students of St. Louis College and St. Ann's Academy who marched with the hearse which carried remains of young O'Sullivan from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home to the cathedral.

A light flurry of snow fell as the procession made its way through downtown streets. A police motorcycle escort led the procession.

Eight of the deceased's closest friends marched beside the hearse.

Rev. Father Alexander J. McDonald conducted the service as celebrant. Fathers Jon Planeta and Daniel Johnston assisted.

Most Rev. Bishop James M. Hill was present at the Mass.

Following the cathedral service, the body was taken to Royal Oak Burial Park for interment.

Civil Servants' Answer Soon

It may be another 10 days before B.C. government employees are given an answer to requests for improved working conditions.

Education Minister Strath, a member of the three-man committee, said the questions were to be discussed today and recommendations will be made to the cabinet.

"We may not reach any decisions immediately," he said. "But as soon as we do, and they have gone through the cabinet, we will make an announcement."

Requests included a five-day, 40-hour week, three weeks' holiday after one year.

FIVE-YEAR RECORD

Driver's Licenses Show Convictions

If you've been convicted of a driving offence this month, and notation of your tangle with the law has been made on the back of your driver's license, it will be transferred to the five-year license you now can get at the Motor Vehicle Offices.

Issuing of the $5 license was started today.

Officials said they don't expect many "past records" will be recorded on the new licenses. Apparently the new ruling which became effective Jan. 1 that offences are to be noted on the license has been ignored.

Holders of blue and yellow licenses which show that they have been convicted of driving charges will be cleared, too, unless there is a notation of their trouble on the back of the license.

There is a space on the new license, though, for future offences to be recorded.

The new licenses are valid for five years from your closest birthday. If you were born between Aug. 31 and March 1, your 1950 license expires Feb. 28. If you were born in the other half of the year, it expires on your next birthday.

Young friends of the deceased were pallbearers.

Would Welcome Inquiry Into Milk Situation

Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman would like to see the whole question of costs and control of milk investigated.

He made this clear when asked to comment today on reports that Vancouver Island dairymen, led by a group in the Duncan area, are planning on making application to the one-man B.C. Milk Board for higher returns.

The island producers have suggested that they be given a greater share of the 2 cents a quart increase ordered by the milk board in this area a short time ago, or that a further increase be granted in their favor.

Mr. Bowman said he had nothing to say now on this question.

"But I would like to see the entire milk problem investigated thoroughly," he said.

He did not know if the Legislature's standing committee on agriculture should make the study or if a special legislative committee should be named.

Mayor George today called a meeting of the police commission for 3 Tuesday afternoon to deal with general business and the recent letter of Dr. E. L. McNiven, in which he criticized the handling of drunken driving cases.

City Manager Says Wage Scale Fair

Conciliation Forecast On Demand Of 170 Employees For Increase

Conciliation on wage requests of 170 members of the City Hall Employees' Association loomed today as City Manager Cecil C. Wyatt said he could not "justifiably recommend" an increase to council.

Clear Debris Of Arena For Roads, Lots

The twisted and tangled remains of what used to be the old Willows ice arena in the former exhibition grounds are being removed to make way for roads and lots in the area.

Shovels and cranes are taking out what is left of ice-making machinery and concrete walls and blocks which were left when the building was razed by fire in April, 1944.

The old concrete walls which formed the 240 by 150-foot perimeter of the arena and several inside walls and concrete pillars supports outline where the structure used to stand.

Many of the big concrete blocks will be used to divert Bowker Creek where erosion is undercutting the banks.

When the area has been cleared, the way will be clear for construction of roads and surveying of lots for the first unit of the old exhibition grounds, now known as Camarvon Park. The park itself will be a section in the centre of the new subdivision.

Brine pipes from the former ice surface were salvaged some years ago.

R.C.M.P. Take Over School Quarters

The island division of the R.C.M.P., known as "A" Division, has moved from the Superior Street building to the refitted former B. C. police school on Quadra.

Move was completed late Wednesday. New quarters gives division personnel more room for their wide operations. Division is in charge of Sub-Inspector George Clark.

The B.C. Game quarters will be expanded to take in two of the offices vacated by the police. The B.C. Travel Bureau, now in the King's Printer building, will take over the other offices.

Chinese Feast, Pay Debts To Celebrate 'New Year'

In Chinatown and in Chinese homes there will be fun and merrymaking next Tuesday in celebration of the Chinese New Year—or the year 2502.

The day will also mark the 40th anniversary of the Chinese republic—a landmark in the world's oldest civilization.

The New Year will be celebrated with banquets and private dinners, for this is the most important day for the older generation of Chinese.

Gifts will be distributed among relatives and among the poor and, according to an ancient custom, debts will be paid up.

IMPORTED FOOD

The majority of Chinese will celebrate the festival in their homes as they are strong believers in family life. Dinners will include special prepared dishes made up of some of the choicest preserved food imported from China.

City firemen this morning put out a fire in a shed on the property of Courtney and Douglas Streets where the Woodward's stores are, being constructed. Firemen said it was caused by an overheated heater.

Arms, Back Protectors...
For Chairs, That Is!

By PENNY SAVER

If an article is used in a hospital, it's a pretty good guess that it is for sanitary purposes and will take rough and hard treatment. They tell me that's why plastic covers for arms and backs of chairs are used.

The covers don't veil the entire chair but only where the head touches and arms rest. With elasticized cuff to hold the covers in place the long chair back for the chesterfield will cost you about $1.69. For the individual chairs, the covers, so easily wiped off with a damp cloth... are 89 cents and the arm rest coverings, the same wearer merely slips a stockinged foot into the warm interior sans shoes.

I mentioned the boots because I've often wondered what one did if the interior became soiled... for all I know the women who own them probably wear socks of some kind over their silk hose. Anyhow, that's where I think the arctic socks come in handy. Fleece lined they are with sizes ranging from 8 to 11 for both men and women. The price of the toe warmers, 39 pennies.

My good friend Mabel called me the other morning and said because she was going to nip over to the mainland for the week-end she wanted a plastic bag of some sort for her dresses. Mind you she didn't want a be-zipped super de luxe affair costing three or four dollars but rather something to serve the purpose and that was all.

price. Actually the above prices are a might hazy at this point as the plastic protectors have just come to town and were not yet sporting price tags when I saw them this morning.

Noticed a number of women wearing an eastern type overboot... I say eastern because it's seldom cold enough for women to wear them in this city. It really is a shoe with warm fleecy lining and of course the

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Fiftyish Wife Of Handsome Professional
Man Distressed At Way He Dresses
For Evening At Home

Dear Mary Haworth: My husband is a professional man, so it should be less effort for him to be well groomed after working hours than if he did manual labor. However, he is handsome and all the girls tell him so, and I guess he takes it as license to be in defiance to his sartorial appearance at home.

We live in an apartment in a northern seaport city; and lately Paul complains of the cold when he settles down in the living-room to read after dinner. So for warmth he adds a slovenly sports shirt, topped by a long woolen bathrobe; and to cap it all, a street felt hat!

We have grown daughters, and when company comes Paul has to rush to his room to buckle up his sagging trousers and generally makes himself presentable. But doesn't he owe it to his family to try to be neat around us all the time? I don't expect him to wear a dinner jacket or even a business suit when he is relaxing; but shouldn't he be tidy?

Mary Haworth

STOUTLY CLINGS
TO FADED SHIRT

To see Paul's habitual lounging garb, you might think I am a don't-care wife who completely neglects his wardrobe needs. But I bought him new slippers five years ago that he never wears, because his older ones are much more comfortable, he says. Also I get long sleeved woolen shirts to keep him warm around the house; but he never changes. He clings to one old worn-and-faded number, and sets up a howl if I try to get it away from him for two days, to send to a dry cleaner.

I saw the show "Come Back, Little Sheba" in which Shirley Booth plays the slovenly housewife slouching around in a dirty kimono and old slippers; and it certainly scared me into taking care that I never let myself go like that. I am 55, and at my age it is all too easy to "look your worst" and I don't intend to let that happen. But what can I do about Paul? Please give us your opinions.—S. L.

IS HAT FOR HUMOR OR FOR COMFORT?

Dear S. L.: You neglected to say whether Paul is a baldhead or not. If he is well advanced in that direction, perhaps the street felt hat, worn for foreside reading, is cannily intended to shield his naked scalp from chimney drafts. But if he has hair on his head, I cannot imagine why the hat for parlor lounging, unless he is aiming some very dry humor at your rousing objections to his relaxed version of Eskimo dress.

Maybe he was playing for a laugh when he first added a hat to his dressing gown ensemble, wondering to himself, "Will she get the joke? Or will she have a tizzy?" And then maybe he felt so cosy in the hat, or so devilishly defiant of your indignation, that he just made it an integral part of his evening-at-home regalia.

Your concern about Paul's appearance and your own suggests that you are probably equally attentive to the looks of your home. I suppose you keep it attractively furnished and smartly groomed at all times; and against such a background, Paul in his rag-bag loafing garb must be a discordant figure indeed.

HARMLESS ODDITIES
AFFORD RELAXATION

It seems to me a good thing for all of us to concede our nearest-and-dearest the privilege of flouting conventional norms, in harmless ways, within the privacy of the "castle." Human behavior en masse is so tightly regimented and streamlined nowadays, for those who are pursuing social acceptance, success and acclaim, that it is well for individuals to change that pace in sympathetic surroundings—if such can be found. So if Paul finds comfort in dressing like a scarecrow in the bosom of his family, my advice is don't cavil about it.

Possibly the root of your grievance is a feeling that your husband "dresses up" only to impress the public, or other women, and seems not to court your admiration any longer. If that is your anxiety, I think it's unnecessary. If he takes you for granted, that is your security in relation to him. He probably has identified himself with you so completely that you are like his right arm, so that he has no compulsion to employ either pretext or armor in home life with you. Rather he dares to enjoy the great luxury of being himself in whimsical ways, in that setup; and in his heart he will call you "blessed" if you tacitly endorse the proposition.—M. H.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

If you are willing to allow the small baby to make his own schedule of feeding, you must accord him the same privilege in the matter of sleeping. There is a tendency for parents to feel disturbed if the baby sleeps too long, feeling that they must waken him to give him an opportunity to eat.

On a self-demand plan of eating, babies may sleep for long hours between some feedings and then waken frequently for others. There should be complete freedom for him to do this, recognizing that to be consistent he has a right to eat and sleep according to his own individual hunger or sleep rhythms.

Let this lead to a completely healthier existence for baby and his family it should also be recognized about the third or fourth month it is all right to help the baby toward some plan of eating and sleeping which will be good for him and convenient for his family.

There need not be a strict or rigid adherence to any schedule the mother may deem desirable, but the mother can work toward that end by expecting the baby to wait 5 or 10 or 15 minutes, until he has become accustomed to waiting.

If his breast-feeding or formula is satisfying to him, and it is resulting in regular gains in weight, there is no harm in edging him toward a regular schedule. In fact, the baby is now of an age when it is right for him to discover that while food is good and plentiful and attendants kind and loving, there can be short periods of frustration when he will not get what he wants at the very moment he wants it.

This knowledge he is now old enough to "take" since his trust in the goodness of his parent, has already been established. The importance of the self-demand plan of feeding is in the early months when the baby is just getting acquainted with his environment and needs to have his faith and trust in it developed and crystallized.

This may seem to be a lengthy explanation of the obvious, but it seems that young mothers once started on permissiveness in feeding do not know that it can come to an end and when to begin working toward that end. This is progress of the kind that helps the baby to accept increasing frustration of his desires, a situation that is compatible with real life.

Our leaflet No. 5, "The First Six Weeks," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Missions Society President Describes Work At Home

In her president's address, given at yesterday afternoon's session of the 25th annual meeting, Women's Missionary Society, United Church in Canada, president Mrs. W. F. Perry spoke of the work of the society during the past year with special emphasis on Vancouver Island and Canada.

"It has always been the purpose of the W.M.S. to help Japanese and Chinese Canadians make their own contribution toward building a Christian Canada," she said when she pointed out there were now eight centres in the Dominion in which Oriental work is established.

At Alberni, she explained, 240 Indian children, including some from Port Simpson, Kitimat and Ahousat, were receiving instruction.

Describing the United Church training school in Toronto, Mrs. Perry said that during the past year, students on scholarship have come to the school from China, Trinidad, Japan, Korea and India.

Rev. S. V. Redman, newly appointed minister to Victoria and James Bay Churches, and former home missionary in the interior of British Columbia and up the coast, urged that the church must give leadership in time of national emergency.

"We cannot be satisfied to go to church once a week, attend our routine organizations and call the job done. There is great missionary work waiting, and a tremendous field to cover."

Mr. Redman sketched briefly his work in the missions field in logging and mining camps and in coast missions.

Buraess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Call it luck or what you will. Fish are mostly caught through skill.

In winter when the big river freezes over there are certain places which do not freeze. Long ago Blacky the crow discovered that sometimes food, such as it is, is washed up on the ice of the shore along these open places. Sometimes it is a dead fish. Someone else has discovered this, too. It is King Eagle, he of the snowy white head and the white tail. This morning King Eagle wasn't around and Blacky was glad of that. Blacky had a lot of respect for King Eagle.

But there were other fishermen at one of his favorite open places where the water ran too swift to freeze. Graywing the gull was there. Longlegs the great blue heron, was there. Rattles the kingfisher was there, and the master fisherman was there. All the other fishermen wore feathers, but not the master fisherman. He was dressed in a warm brown coat of fur. Have you guessed who he was? He was Little Joe Otter.

When Blacky saw Little Joe's brown head appear above the water he knew right away that there was little chance for the other fishermen. Graywing fishes by flying over the water and watching for a small fish to come near enough to the surface so that he can swoop down and catch it before it can dive. Rattles the kingfisher watches from a tree that hangs over the water. Being small himself he can catch only small fish like minnows. Being above the water he can look down in and see a fish quite a bit below the surface. Then he plunges, going wholly under water and usually catching the surprised fish. Longlegs the heron stands still for long periods. When a fish comes near enough that long neck of his shoots out and down and usually he catches the fish. All three wait for the fish to come to them. Their success depends on patience. Most good fishermen have to be patient. Of course you know that.

But it isn't so with the master fisherman. Little Joe Otter doesn't wait for fish to come to him; he goes where the fish are. None of those other fishermen chase fish, but Little Joe Otter does. When he makes up his mind that he wants a fish he goes looking for it under water, and usually he finds one. He can see under water as well as out of water. If the frightened fish darts away, Little Joe starts after him, for he is a wonderful swimmer. It's a lucky fish that escapes Little Joe Otter.

Now as Blacky watched, Little Joe dived. When he came up he had a fish crosswise in his mouth. It wasn't a small fish such as the others would have been satisfied with. It was a big fish. Little Joe swam to shore and climbed out. He climbed out almost under the tree in which Blacky was sitting. He looked up at Blacky. He put the fish down and looked up at Blacky again. "How do you like the looks of that?" he asked.

BLACKY GETS HUNGRY
Blacky said nothing. He watched Little Joe eat that fish and as he watched he grew hungrier and hungrier. That is the trouble with watching other people eat. You may think you are not hungry but you suddenly are. It was so with Blacky. He had had a small fish for breakfast, but now he felt hungrier than ever. If a bird's mouth could water, Blacky's would have. He wished that Little Joe would offer him part of that fish. He hoped that that fish was too big for Little Joe to eat all of it. It was. Little Joe ate only part of it. Then once more he took to the water. Blacky prepared to fly down and finish that fish.

Veteran British Impresario Dies
LONDON (AP)—Sir Charles B. Cochran, one of Britain's greatest showmen, died Wednesday. He was 78.

The great actor-manager-producer, who presented such stars as Bernhardt, Duse, Sacha Guitry and Chaplin, was scalded by hot water while taking a bath last Wednesday. He was unable to turn off the faucet and could not get out of the tub.

He was taken to Westminster Hospital, where his condition slowly deteriorated.

Movie censors are tightening up on the cleavage rules again. The film dress designers blame it on criticism of TV queens and old movies now used on TV that were made before the anti-great divide edit.

They passed out audience reaction cards at a recent preview and one of the questions read: "Should anything be cut?"

One irate moviegoer wrote: "Yes, several things should be cut. The throats of the writer, director, producer and star."

LONDON (AP)—Sir Charles B. Cochran, one of Britain's greatest showmen, died Wednesday. He was 78.

The great actor-manager-producer, who presented such stars as Bernhardt, Duse, Sacha Guitry and Chaplin, was scalded by hot water while taking a bath last Wednesday. He was unable to turn off the faucet and could not get out of the tub.

He was taken to Westminster Hospital, where his condition slowly deteriorated.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Culver High Boys To See Teacher As 'Tom Sawyer'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 10 grade students at Culver City High School are due for a jolt. They will soon be seeing the movie "Tom Sawyer," with their teacher in the starring role.

He is known as Mr. Kelly to the 'teen-agers, but to movie fans of a decade ago he was Tommy Kelly. Now that "Tom Sawyer" is being dusted off for a re-release, he is faced with a unique situation.

"I don't know how my kids are going to take it," remarked teacher Kelly. "They are older now than I was when I made the picture. Seeing me and hearing me called Tommy may be quite a surprise to them."

Today, Kelly looks much younger than his 27 years. He is still red-headed and looks only a few years older than when he played the Mark Twain hero at the age of 12. "When I came back from the war, the studios said I looked too young even to play 19-year-olds," he remarked.

BACK TO TEACHING
"After that I played big roles in little pictures and little roles in big pictures," he observed. "I was in the army for three years, then I came back and got my teaching credential at Loyola University."

Kelly still keeps up his dues in the Screen Actors' Guild and sometimes plays roles during school vacations.

NO SACK OF GOLD
"Some people think I should have lots of money because I was in pictures," he laughed. "Not long ago I figured up my entire earnings for 15 years in the movies. It came to an average of $10 to $15 a week."

Mitchum Is Released
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Movie actor Robert Mitchum, convicted in 1949 of a narcotics charge, was released Wednesday from the terms of two years' probation by superior Judge Clement D. Nye. The court ordered the record of the case expunged. Mitchum was arrested after police said he was participating in a marijuana party.

Noted Sculptor Dies
TORONTO (CP)—Edward Watson, 71, sculptor, whose art decorates the doorway of the Ottawa home of Canada's Governor-General, died Wednesday.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

"Somebody ought to look up all the bridge experts," complains an Akron reader. "They're always telling us how to bid or play, but when I follow their advice, I am sure to land right on my nose."

"For example, in this hand, I decided to use the Lightner Slam Double. Now as I understand it, this double asks your partner to make an unusual opening lead. I wanted my partner to lead hearts so that I could make one of my small trumps; and I therefore doubled six spades."

"He opened a heart, and I ruffed. Thereupon declarer proceeded to make his slam. If I hadn't doubled, or if West had ignored my double, South would not have made his slam. I'd have made my trump trick, and West would have made his heart trick."

"What can you say in defense of the experts?"

I think my Akron correspondent will know better than to make such a double the next time. It must be pretty clear that the fault lies not in the idea of the Lightner Slam Double, but in the particular time that East chose to double.

Many slams can be defended only if an unusual opening lead is demanded. This does not mean that you double without due thought. Whenever you ask your partner to lead declarer's side suit (as East did in this case) you must always ask yourself this question: Will this lead sacrifice a trick that my partner could have made by just sitting tight? Unless you can answer this question to your satisfaction, you should not make use of the slam double.

From the way my Akron friend writes, it is clear that he is a good player. If he continues to use the Lightner Slam Double, he will soon learn not only when to use this fine convention, but also when not to use it.

Today's Question
As dealer, with both sides vulnerable, you hold: Spades K-J-6-3, Hearts A-Q-9-7-4, Diamonds A-5, Clubs 6-4. You bid one heart, and your partner bids one spade. The opponents pass throughout. What do you do next?

Answer tomorrow.

FINED FOR 'GIRLIE' Magazine Sale
OTTAWA (CP)—A fine of $100 and costs was levied against the National News Company Limited in police court Wednesday on conviction of distributing obscene printed material. The charge grew out of police investigation into the purchase of a "Girlie" magazine by a 10-year-old Ottawa girl. The mother took a look at the book and called police. Morality Officer Roland Beauchamp told the court the magazine was "too frank, very suggestive and immoral."

B.C. Pulp Business Is Only Starting

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor.

Most striking development in British Columbia trade in recent years has been by the pulp and paper industry. The capital invested in the industry in B.C. has risen in 11 years from $68 millions to $225 millions.

This figure includes the capital expenditure on three great new projects at Powell River ($11 millions), Prince Rupert ($35 millions) and Duncan Bay ($40 millions).

The Prince Rupert mill owned by Columbia Cellulose is practically ready to start, and the construction work at Duncan Bay, where the Elk Falls Company have a tie-up with Canadian Western Lumber and Pacific Mills, is also making satisfactory progress.

On top of this is the recent completion of the H. R. MacMillan mill at Nanaimo, the Bloedel, Stewart and Welch mill at Port Alberni, and last but not least the engagement of the B.C. Pulp and Paper Company into the vast Abitibi network.

Abitibi, with its mills in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, is almost certain in the near future to develop its western association with Alaska Pine. It already controls the former B.C. Pulp and paper mills at Port Alice and Woodfibre.

Despite all this British Columbia is so far doing only a small part of the Canadian trade in pulp, the latest available figures showing only slightly more than 10 per cent as coming from B.C.

This can clearly be increased on availability of raw materials for B.C. has 27 per cent of Canada's suitable softwood, while Quebec which produces more than half of Canada's total pulp output of about 8,000,000 tons has only 35 per cent of Canada's softwood.

As the British Columbia developments come into full production, the percentage from the province will increase and become perhaps the most important of all phases of B.C. industry.

Hedley Mascot Gold Mines Ltd. is due today to put its Giant Mascot mine at Spillmacheen into production, and news from the company is that the program is right on schedule. Developed ore averaging at least 8 per cent lead is estimated at 140,000 tons.

The operations of the mine will be conducted by Giant Mascot Mines Ltd., in which Hedley Mascot will own 55 per cent and Silver Giant Mines Ltd. 45 per cent.

The Dow Jones average which yesterday approached near to the 250 mark is now less than 50 points behind their all-time high of 1930. The proximity may, in these uncertain times, be alarming.

Yet, there is a big difference between the 1930 and 1931 situations. Equities today often represent more earnings, and stronger financial positions than ever before.

In 1930 the 30 Dow Jones stocks were appraised at 294 times their earnings of $10.44. Today these industrialists are earning $25.40, which on their appraisal value of just short of 250 means that they are inside 10 times their earning capacity, and their dividend rate averages about 6 per cent.

This is regarded as being a conservative estimate of common stock value, even in inflationary times.

"Today our economy is 51 per cent good and 49 per cent bad," says Herbert Anderson, writing in Labour Review. "In the depression days we could not afford to pay 6 cents for a pound of pork; today we fight to pay a $2,000 minimum for a car."

Mr. Anderson goes on to say that the transition from an economy where necessities could not be afforded to one where the fight is to secure luxuries, is not wholly a happy story.

Alcan Plant Will Be Safe From Bombs

The powerhouse and the dam of the new Aluminum Co. of Canada scheme at Kemano, B.C., will be practically bombproof, according to R. E. Powell, president.

Giving evidence before a U.S. Congressional committee, he said that water from Tweedsmuir Park would be carried through penstocks inside the mountain. The powerhouse would be in a cave a quarter of a mile inside a granite mountain, thus making it completely secure from air attack.

The proposed dam on the Nechako River would be rock-filled and like the spillway would not be equipped with gates, and thus not particularly susceptible to bomb damage.

Nathaniel V. Davis, president of the parent Aluminum Co., said that most of the material requirements for the B.C. projects would come from Canada itself, but that some special grades of steel and some special equipment would be required from the United States or elsewhere.

Wheat Rises On U.S. Order

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat soared to its top price in three years in active dealings today.

Buying was touched off by an agriculture department announcement that it was withdrawing its offer to sell cash wheat to foreign countries, and reducing the amount offered in the domestic market from 100,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels.

Previously, the government offered 100,000,000 bushels to either the foreign or domestic markets. Sales in the domestic market now will be restricted to premium wheat or when an emergency situation exists, the department said.

Wheat spurred on a heavy buying movement, hitting highs since February, 1948. Corn rose to new peaks since July, 1948, and other grains firmed without matching wheat's strength.

Railways May Solve U.K. Lumber Problem

VANCOUVER (CP)—Shippers reported today that the United Kingdom, in desperate need of British Columbia lumber, has offered to pay rail freight to the Atlantic seaboard to speed shipments here.

The shippers to Britain have been delayed by a shortage of ship bottoms here. Lumber exporters were reported studying the rail-shipment proposal. The exporters have an order from the United Kingdom timber control for 460,000,000 board feet of lumber for delivery before the end of June.

Looks like Victoria scored all round 'other night when our own Hometowners went coast-to-coast on the Dominion network with the first CBC musical program to originate in our city. Dick Bates, assistant manager at CJVI, was so sure he could take the starch out of those oh-so-stiff CBC production regulations that he wagered a goodly sized thirst quencher against even British "fuel" to smoke a large number of salted herrings, stating he would get HIS station slogan on the CBC and at the same time advertise Victoria as "Canada's Most Beautiful City"—(an understatement to say the least). Suffice to say Dick can look forward to quite a number of hearty Cockney breakfasts—and he needn't have a dry tongue either.

While talking of things British we might say that television is not by any means new to England. The English have had TV for the past 15 years and some say their production is much better. But while we in America talk of our stars as being "hot-stuff" the British are putting theirs on ice.

In the BBC's new television studios at Lime Grove instead of a large heating plant they are putting Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

In a special refrigeration unit—the first of its kind in Britain. The reason for this apparently cruel treatment of its artists is that when a great deal of lighting is being used in the studios, the temperature rises to almost unbearable heights, grease paint melts and actors' and technicians' efficiency, and will to work, is impaired. Now, with air conditioning provided by a new type of ventilator and this refrigeration unit in position, the temperature in the TV studios will be kept at a comfortable level even when the full lighting arrangement is in use. All that's left now to get HOT is the director's temper.

Still on the subject of TV, we learn via the grapevine that the old "Manassas Mauler" Jack Dempsey, the former world's heavyweight boxing champion, is being seriously considered as star of a TV show to be slanted at the moped audience.

Which somehow reminds us of another new TV development. Hollywood is buzzing this week with "inside" rumors that kinescope (a means of presenting delayed TV programs) may be abandoned before the year's end. Engineers have found terrific success in initial experiments putting TV shows on magnetic recording tape, similar to that used now for sound alone. Laboratory experts predict that it will not only replace "kine" as a means of recording shows, but will revolutionize the whole television industry, as did tape in radio and recording.

Now if you have had enough TV for one night may we suggest you tune in filmland's Paul Douglas who guest stars tonight on the spine-tingler "Suspense," 6 p.m., KIRO. Then at 8 there is "Citizens' Forum" on CBR with the topic for discussion "Canada's seasonal unemployment problem—is there a solution?" At 8:30 you will enjoy a half hour with England's own Reginald Stone at the organ over CKDA. And back on CBR you can hear the Vancouver Concert Orchestra at 9. If it's next to bed—better not tell Uncle Ed.

Speaking of retiring, arranger Al Woodbury's young nephew finished up his prayers the other night with "And that concludes my broadcast to God for tonight."

SLASHED!!!
Three months ago I ran the following advertisement which I believed to be one of the outstanding buys on Vancouver Island. I regret to say this outstanding property at a give-away price.

Outstanding Resort
A Bargain
I have just come back from an inspection tour of up-land properties which have been taken a month and I believe I have seen most of the worthwhile properties that are offered for sale. The property described in the following paragraph appeals to me as an outstanding bargain and consists of:
78 acres, half a mile of waterfront with sandy beach, which I valued at $20,000.
18 fully furnished modern cottages, valued at $25,000 each or $37,500.
11 uncompleted cottages, value $10,000.
Lodge building, housing dining room, kitchen, lounge, office, etc., valued at $10,000.
Power house, laundry, private water system, boats, motor equipment, etc., valued at $5,000, which makes a total valuation approximately $127,500.
This property can be bought outright for $60,000, on some terms.

This resort is well known and caters to the tourist trade. Also the sportsmen, fishermen and hunters.
Please note there is no change in the above property. It is still "PACKED WITH VALUE." Only $60,000 has been changed.
NEW PRICE SLASHED

$35,000
If you are interested in a paying proposition of this type, do not fail to see this!

What's New at Eaton's

Fine was when the Hardware Department seemed to be as prosaic as the broom closet and about as interesting as a set of screw drivers. BUT, came the revelation when one damp lunch hour found us on an extended tour of those lower precincts... and lo, our eyes widened in wonder... for there we saw oh-so-many fascinating gimmicks, all invented to save householders much time, much labour and many many pennies. So, if your ears pricked up on the last three words you'll perhaps be interested in these few gadgets...

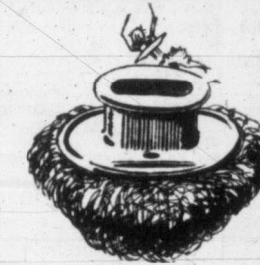

Twist, Don't Rub...

Aladdin's Canmaster... a plastic affair that pierces cans of milk, syrup, juices and salad oil with aplomb, and with a twist pours the contents easily, without mess. Special air-tight seal lets you store the contents in the refrigerator, safely! You'll find them in bright kitchen colours, for only 39¢ each.

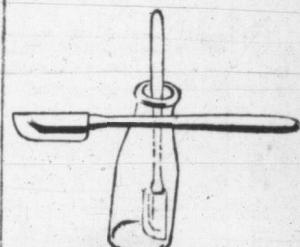

Rack 'em up, Boys

Someone in your household is going to be out of a job... dish drying, we mean! This double gimmick dries dishes and glasses without wiping... prevents breakage... saves space. The combination part of this combination dishdrainer is a glass holder attachment that holds glasses securely... both made with a Vinylite plastic coating that doesn't rust, peel, or rot; in brilliant colours that stay that way. Complete, 2.50

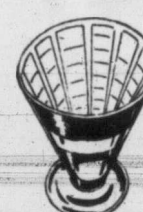

For Beauty's Sake

Keep lovely fingernails lovely... with a rubber steel wool holder. Flexible enough to manoeuvre into corners and over rounded surfaces, wide enough to keep fingers away from damaging steel wool, for 35¢

Super Scraper

Remember all those wars with relish bottles and various other narrow bottles whose contents remained firmly rooted to the dark depths no matter how you prodded, panged or shook? Peace at last... a slim bladed rubber scraper reaches hard-to-clean areas (flat, round or cornered) with ease and thoroughness. Just 39¢ each.

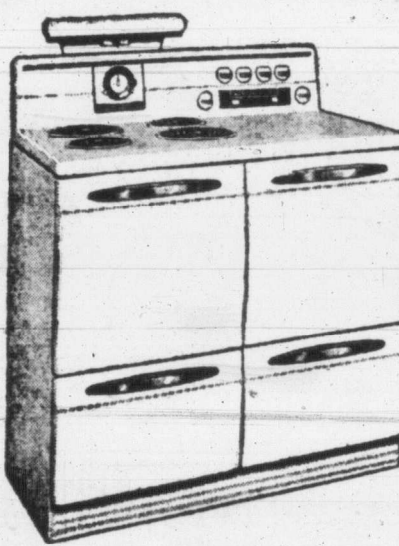

Fill 'er Up

Tells you everything but the time of day... a fabulously well-informed measuring cup that will save you lots of time in cooking, not to speak of its accuracy. A grand shower gift at 80¢ per cup.
